

'NO CAUSE FOR ALARM'

Diphtheria Death Here

First diphtheria death here in more than a decade was confirmed today by a final laboratory test but health officials stressed there was no cause for alarm.

"We have traced all the contacts and tested them and none have proved carriers but they have been treated as a precaution," said metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread.

A 30-year-old woman, who has not been identified, succumbed to the disease this week. She was believed the first such case since the mid-1940s.

"There is no cause for alarm and no need for any emergency wholesale immunization."

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

"All doctors in the community have been notified through the hospitals in the routine manner and there is no need for any public upset because all the precautions were taken."

He said it had not been determined precisely how the woman contracted the disease but it was known that she was never immunized for diphtheria.

"This points up the need for parents to make sure their children are immunized. The health board has diphtheria immunization clinics for pre-school children regularly and school children also are covered."

SERIOUSLY SICK

Dr. Whitbread said the woman had been seriously ill for some time and when she began showing diphtheria symptoms immediate precautions were taken to trace and test all contacts.

Preliminary laboratory tests however did not indicate diphtheria but a special test taken after her death, and completed this morning, showed positive.

Diphtheria is a bacterial infection of the throat and nasal passages which can result in weakening of the heart or central nervous system.

NOW RARE

"It used to be quite common between the two world wars—there were large isolation hospitals for it—but it has become very rare today," said Dr. Whitbread.

Credit for virtually stamping out the disease goes to the widespread immunization programs and pasteurization of milk.

Plea to End Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has re-entered the crippling dock strike with an urgent plea to both longshoremen and ship owners to resume negotiations in the name of the national interest.

Reduced Deficit Budget Objective

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA—Finance Minister George Nowlan will bring down his first budget after Feb. 15 with the objective of narrowing the budgetary deficit. It will be a hold-the-line budget.

Under the guidance of the new minister of finance, aided and abetted in the cabinet by Senator Wallace McCutcheon, the government will follow a policy of trying to raise federal revenues so that they will exceed federal expenditures.

It is a tough job, but the effort is being made. Consequently Canadians can not look for any important tax cuts in the coming budget. The government hopes to avoid any major increases in taxation. But if it is serious in its efforts to reduce the deficit by any sizeable amount it may have to impose some tax increases. This is a move that all governments want to avoid on the eve of a general election.

Certainly it appears that Canada is again on the eve of a general election. The patience of the Social Credit party with the Conservative government appears to be about exhausted. National Social Credit leader Robert Thompson has served notice that if the government takes no "positive action" in the next few weeks his group will stop supporting the administration.

The main estimates for 1963-1964 will end up close to $6.5 billion or almost $500 million more than the revised main estimates of last October. Nearly half of this is built in uncontrolled increases in expenditures. The remainder is picked up by expenditures deferred this year to bring about the austerity cuts. These are the hard economic facts facing the budgeters.

Cuba Bans Departures

HAVANA (AP)—A diplomatic source said today an offer to permit 1,000 more Cubans to leave Cuba has been cancelled. Premier Castro had said the 1,000 additional relatives of released Bay of Pigs prisoners could leave for the United States aboard an American freighter.

WIRE BRIEFS

Pardon Not 'Bought'

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago American reported today John (Jake The Barber) Factor declared in an interview, "I did not buy my pardon." After talking with Factor by telephone at his Beverly Hills, Calif., home, Harry Romanoff and George Murray reported Factor told them, "The records will show that my pardon was open and above-board."

Quints Were Hoax

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Cordoba Police Chief Alberto Horodas today termed a "hoax" reports reaching here Thursday night of the birth of quintuplets to a peasant couple at Simbolar, remote interior village. Horodas said he had been unable to confirm the report.

Progress Reported

RAWALPINDI Pakistan (Reuters)—India and Pakistan today reported "some progress" in their negotiations here on the Kashmir dispute and agreed to continue talks in New Delhi next month. (See page 5.)

LONDON (AP)—Estimates of crop damage mounted today as numbing cold and a sheath of ice and snow continued to cover much of Europe.

Unofficial estimates put the loss in Spain's citrus crop at $85,000,000 as the result of one of the coldest waves of the century.

Elsewhere in Europe the bitter cold showed no signs of abating.

Small footprints in the snow led searchers to the bodies of a nine-year-old boy and his six-year-old sister who fell through the ice while skating on a pond in Staffordshire, England.

Three persons were reported frozen to death at Bilbao in northern Spain.

Rising temperatures eased the cold in southern Spain, but melting snows and rain caused floods, and at least three persons drowned at Ultrera near Sevilla. Others were feared to have drowned at Algeciras.

Road crashes killed 14 people in Britain during the five-day Christmas period. Some were victims of ice-filmed roads.

Fresh snow fell on hundreds of miles of already ice-covered roads in southwest England Thursday night and Cornwall county was described by one resident as "a giant skating rink."

At Uckfield, south of London, a foot of snow fell and then froze solid.

Automobile Association authorities warned Thursday that roads in all 32 counties of Britain were affected by snow and

Girl Loses Rejoined Arm

CALGARY (CP)—Hazel Donlin, 18-year-old Kelseyville, Calif., girl whose severed left arm was rejoined in Calgary last July, has had the limb amputated.

The operation was performed in San Francisco Dec. 13 after a bone infection set in, according to word received in Calgary from Hazel's mother.

TEST NEW DRUGS

Dr. Kelsey Gets High U.S. Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, hailed as national heroine for keeping thalidomide off the United States market, today was put at the head of a new U.S. office which will pass on requests to test new drugs on humans.

Her appointment as director of the investigational drug branch was part of a reorganization at the Food and Drug Administration's new drug division which was approved today by Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Dr. Kelsey, a native of Cobble Hill, B.C., said she knew the new job "was in the wind" and was pleased, but was not certain about the scope of her new duties.

DR. KELSEY happy with assignment

In a statement Celebrezze said the reorganization of the drug division will permit the FDA to cope with its increased responsibilities in the new drug area.

As a backlash of the outcry over thalidomide—a sedative blamed for deformities of thousands of infants born around the world—Congress last October enacted a law giving the FDA stronger authority over production and sales of prescription drugs.

The broadcast, heard at Key West, said both locomotive engineers, who suffered minor injuries, were arrested pending an investigation.

NIGHT'S LODGING, BUS RIDE TO ROSE BOWL

'Package Deals' Protect Imbibers

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of establishments catering to New Year's Eve celebrants are emphasizing programs to keep their patrons off the highways.

Setting the pace are big clubs and hotels in Los Angeles. A new-paper safe columnist says police warnings on drunken driving, police roadblocks, and a crackdown on traffic violations have made it harder to lure people out of the big suburban areas for an evening of celebrating in the city.

Several Los Angeles hotels are offering a free room with their package deals for New Year's Eve at prices up to $67. One hotel's plan includes a party at the Coconut Grove, a night's lodging and a bus ride the next morning to the Rose Bowl parade in Pasadena. A hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif., has changed its package deal to exclude drinks, making the price cheaper, and eliminating the obligation of celebrators to drink up their money's worth before heading home.

The most exclusive celebration in the Los Angeles area will be the black-tie affair closing Mike Romanoff's Beverly Hills restaurant. Many Hollywood celebrities are expected to attend the party, featuring three orchestras and an abundance of fine foods for which the restaurant is noted.

Howard Johnson's motor lodge chain in Columbus, Ohio, has a $17-a-couple deal with overnight accommodations for two, dancing, swimming, buffet supper, and breakfast on New Year's Day. Other clubs in the city have cover charges from $3 to $350.

Churches will open their doors for traditional and evangelical watch-night services. "Prayers will be offered for world peace. Millions of families will spend New Year's Eve at their hearthside. Others will celebrate with friends in private homes."

One of the world's most famous celebrations takes place in New York City's Times Square, where thousands jam streets and sidewalks to yell, cheer and have toes and ribs bruised.

In the country's major cities the average nightclub price will range around $35 a person which usually includes dinner, noise makers, fun hats and confetti, but not drinks.

TSHOMBE HAS LOST CONTROL

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A United Nations spokesman said today it appears President Moise Tshombe of the Congo's Katanga Province has lost control of his police forces in Elisabethville.

New Blast Shatters The Wall

BERLIN (AP)—The biggest explosive assault ever against the wall dividing Berlin was carried out before dawn today.

There was no immediate indication of who set the blast.

The explosion ripped a three-foot-square hole in the wall and smashed 600 windows in neighboring buildings, including 150 in a fire brigade headquarters.

West Berlin police said it was the biggest explosive charge laid against the wall in its 16 months of existence, although previous smaller explosions have caused more damage to the wall itself.

They believed the people responsible were interrupted at their work. The charge was not embedded in the wall before it went off, which accounted for the comparatively slight damage to the wall itself and the considerable destruction away from it.

BITS SAME SPOT

The explosion went off 100 yards from the site of another explosion Dec. 16. That time three men set a charge and gave themselves up to police five minutes before it went off.

Both blasts went off in the Jerusalem Strasse, 800 yards from the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie, at Friedrichstrasse.

Nobody was hurt in today's explosion but a wooden weather shelter used by West Berlin police was ripped apart. It was empty at the time.

West Berlin police estimated that explosives equal to about 22 pounds of TNT were used for the blast.

Police also reported that a defecting 22-year-old member of the East German army got through the barricades in uniform Thursday night on West Berlin's northern border.

Peace Dam Bids Called

B.C. Hydro announced today it will call tenders for the huge Portage Mountain dam on the Peace River, Jan. 8.

Bids will be opened April 4 and a contract awarded around May 1. Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum announced.

Dr. Shrum said the world's largest contractors from Canada, United States and Europe will bid on the job expected to cost about $80,000,000.

Firms who bid must make either a cash deposit or bond of $3,000,000. The contract winner will have to put up a 50 per cent performance bond.

The dam, near Hudson Hope, will be one mile long and will contain 60,000,000 cubic yards of fill.

Paratroopers Invade Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—United Nations troops have fought their way into and captured the Katanga Provincial gendarmerie headquarters in Elisabethville, UN headquarters here said tonight.

A headquarters spokesman said the UN troops cleared Katangan roadblocks.

He said about 1,000 Indonesian UN paratroopers arrived in Albertville, north of Elisabethville, and prepared to move into the Katangan capital.

All UN civilians had been ordered to evacuate Elisabethville, he said.

By DENNIS KILEY

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—Large-scale firing which broke out around Elisabethville at about 9 p.m. Thursday night continued today and Katanga Province's gendarmes are bombarding Ethiopian United Nations troop positions with heavy mortars.

Firing could still be heard, though UN troops are standing by with instructions to fire only in self defence while repulsing a physical attack.

This Reuters correspondent understood from the highest UN authority, however, that the UN forces will counter-attack today on at least two different fronts.

A UN officer said this would be "with a view to getting hold of the mercenaries who are probably backing them (the Katangans) and giving them the courage to carry on firing at us."

A UN battalion will attack the Katangan positions at the Elisabethville golf course, the officer said, and the Ethiopians will "clean up" the Union Miniere guesthouse, from which mercenaries were reported firing on Ethiopian positions.

This correspondent was pinned down all night in a house just inside UN Indian Gurkha positions with a Katanga heavy machine-gun post 80 yards away.

Firing started at 9 p.m. Thursday night and went on without interruption all night although it was pitch dark and raining.

The Gurkhas took up their positions and from time to time fired back.

A Gurkha lieutenant told this correspondent about 4 a.m. today his troops were firing at Katangans they could see creeping up on them through the grass.

He said they were allowed to

fire only if the Katangans came within a few yards of them. He thought they had killed one.

Chief UN representative Eliud Mathu and the UN general officer commanding the Katanga area, Indian-General Prem Chand, together with the Elisabethville UN commanding officer, Indian Brigadier Noronha, took Katanga President Moise Tshombe up to the firing positions at the golf course about 10 p.m. to see for himself what his men were doing.

Tracers could be seen streaking towards the Gurkha positions at that stage.

Forced to Watch Shooting

An Indian officer said Tshombe wanted to leave at once but Noronha held him there physically for a few minutes to see the firing personally.

After that the UN officers and Mathu went with Tshombe to his house for discussions.

While they were there, Tshombe's presidential guards opened fire with machine-guns and he angrily gave orders for them to stop.

He promised Mathu and Prem Chand he would stop the firing by this morning.

Firing was continuing as this was written however.

Tshombe and his ministers had been restricted to the city since Dec. 24 "to insure that they will be there to maintain order," according to Mathu.

Their official cars have been turned back on several occasions when they attempted to leave.

However, they were reported to have left the city.

The schooner North Star, under the command of Captain Jones, arrived this morning at Little's Wharf with 60 tons of coal for Victoria Coal Company. The sloops Palmetto and Hamley were scheduled to leave Nanaimo for Victoria with more coal today.

The brig Sheet Anchor left today for Puget Sound to load up with lumber for San Francisco.

The installation of Worshipful Master W. Jeffrey of Vancouver Lodge No. 421 will take place tonight. Members of the lodge will celebrate after the installation by dining at the Hotel de France.

Pit No. 3 of the Nanaimo Coal Mines fell in Wednesday, it was learned today. All of the men who were in the pit at the time of the cave-in escaped without injury by running for their lives. The debris has not as yet been cleared away and operations are expected to cease for several days.

MOSCOW—Soviet authorities claim that distillers in Soviet Moldavia have devised a method for turning out "three-year-old" brandy in three months.
Several years ago the Russians began doing similar things with champagne. The processing period for champagne now is only three weeks.
The official news agency Tass said:
"Oak tree sawdust fills the role of wood. The sawdust is treated with chemical reagents, which are easily removed after they help to separate tannin, the aromatic substances and sugar at a faster pace."
"Experiments have shown that the aroma, taste and strength... surpasses ordinary three-year-old brandies."

The robber held up a teller by pretending he had a gun in his pocket, and fled on foot with a paper bag stuffed with bills.

"Less than an hour later, a police officer saw a cab driver arguing with a passenger, and stroled over to the taxi.

"Where did you get all that money?" he asked the passenger who was trying to convince the cab driver to join him for a cup of Christmas cheer.

"I just held up a bank," the passenger replied.

The officer got into the cab, handcuffed the ruby-nosed passenger, and was driven to a police station.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M.—A Pueblo Indian accused of hiding gold bars allegedly buried by the bandit Jesse James has been arrested.

Joe Suazo, also known as Kopeen and Lindy, is supposed to know the location of 14½ gold bars now claimed by Jesse L. James of Manitou, Colo.

The Colorado man filed suit to force Suazo to give up the gold which he said his grandfather left to him. In the suit, James said he and Suazo found the gold buried in the Santa Clara reservation. He charged Suazo later hid the gold and refused to give it up until the "spirits" told him to do so.

After Suazo did not appear in court to answer to the suit and again to answer a court order telling him to turn the gold over to James, his arrest was ordered and he was picked up Wednesday.

Solar Flares Present No Hazard
To Men in Space, 'Spy' Reports

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Scientists today presented the first extensive analysis of data beamed through millions of miles of space from Mariner II, the United States satellite that beamed past Venus two weeks ago.

The results, the scientists said, are tentative and subject to revision as further, more detailed study is made of the huge amount of information soaked up and sent back by the interplanetary "spy."

They noted that no spectacular findings have yet come to light. Results so far confirm what earth scientists have surmised as a result of previous experiments.

The reports were prepared for a press conference, held as part of the three-day joint meeting of the American Geophysical Union and the American Physical Society.

About 1,200 top scientists from Europe, Canada and the United States have spread out over Stanford University for hundreds of reports, meetings and informal gatherings to talk shop.

VITAL TO RESEARCH

Mariner II carried out two experiments designed to measure the charged-particle radiation in space, including galactic cosmic rays and streams of high-energy particles which are released intermittently from the sun.

The problem of these "solar flares" and their production of high-energy particles is particularly important to interplanetary space research because the large streams may contain particles in large enough numbers and high enough energies to form a hazard to manned space missions.

No such threat was observed by Mariner, however, according to the report by Drs. H. R. Anderson of the California Institute of Technology jet propulsion laboratory and H. V. Neher of Cal Tech.

They also reported the apparent absence of magnetically-tapped radiation particle belts around Venus such as the Van Allen belt around the earth.

Streams of very hot ionized gas projected into space from the sun's inner corona — and known as "solar winds" — appear to be the dominant feature of interplanetary space in our region of the solar system, they said.

SOLAR WIND STORMS

The solar wind previously was correctly diagnosed as the cause of earth's geo-magnetic storms, radio blackouts and maybe the auroral displays, such as the northern lights.

Mariner reported the number of solar wind particles in our region of the solar system is about 1,000,000 times greater than the number of cosmic rays, and the total energy content of the solar wind is much

SECRET U.S. SATELLITE 'WIRE-TAPPING' SOVIET

NEW YORK (UPI)—A secret American satellite, so sensitive it can tap Russian telephone messages and pinpoint missile launch sites by their radio guidance signals, now is orbiting the earth, Newsweek Magazine reported this week.

The robot inspector, called the "Ferret," contains electronic and electromagnetic sensors to pick up clear, coded or scrambled transmissions and relay them to United States listening posts, the magazine said. It was developed by Lockheed Aircraft and Radio Corp. of America (RCA), according to Newsweek.

The foreign office said in London its consul in Elisabethville, Derek Dodson, reported that the capital of the secessionist Congo province was without water and electricity supplies and telex communications were not operating.

Dodson's report said a cease-fire apparently had been arranged for 6 a.m. Elisabethville time today but was not observed and sporadic fighting continued.

CASUALTIES

Reports said there had been casualties on both sides in the fighting, but no figures were available.

President Tshombe claimed in his capital Thursday the UN was planning to arrest him and his ministers "to paralyze the country if the United Nations decided to apply military measures."

In a note to the UN, Tshombe also protested against the decision on Christmas Eve to stop Katangan ministers and officials' cars at roadblocks set up after firing between UN and Katangan forces.

Katanga Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba, who read the president's protest at a press conference, said the UN "and behind them the United States" were working out a vast plan to start a war in the mineral-rich province.

A UN spokesman in New York denied the United Nations had any plan to arrest Tshombe or members of his cabinet and said a Katanga charge that the world organization was planning a military drive to end the province's secession from the Congo was "ridiculous."

Representatives Henry Reuss, chairman of a joint Senate-House of Representatives subcommittee which studied the deficit problem, called in Western Europe, as well as Canada to open wider their markets to American goods.

Emphasizing that his remarks were aimed mainly at Europe's Common Market, the Wisconsin Democrat told a press conference Thursday the U.S. requires better treatment than straight tariff reciprocity to restore its payments balance "and the time has come for European countries to realize this."

He suggested the U.S. ask the Common Market immediately to eliminate all tariffs on American durable goods. Europe, he said, must play a larger role in providing better opportunities for American exports, and all the industrialized Western countries, including Canada, must play a larger role in aiding underdeveloped areas to take some of the payments burden off the American back.

The resident minister, Rev. Dr. F. E. H. James, is expected to return next week. With Mrs. James he spent Christmas with relatives in Ontario after a six months' tour of Europe.

changes the FDA proposed a rash of tighter regulations which after being discussed and criticized are now being re-drafted.

An FDA spokesman said today that the regulations dealing with the testing of drugs on humans will be issued "fairly soon."

The others, he indicated, will come out later "They are," he said, "taking longer than we had hoped."

Dr. Kelsey's investigational drug branch, according to the FDA announcement, "is being established to evaluate reports of proposed clinical tests of new drugs" which manufacturers and others will submit in compliance with the investigational drug regulations.

"Frankly, I don't know what it (the new job) will consist of until the regulations come out," Dr. Kelsey told a reporter.

But broadly her duties, for which she will receive $16,485 yearly, will be to check on reports of firms proposing to test new drugs on humans.

HAS NEW POWERS

She will be operating under new powers which give the FDA authority, among other things, to:

Require "substantial evidence" that a drug is effective as well as safe before it may be approved for marketing.

Bar the marketing of a new drug until it has received the affirmative approval of the FDA which also received additional time to pass on the safety and effectiveness of the drugs.

Require that new drugs be tested on animals before they are given to humans in clinical testing.

Dr. Kelsey, a no-nonsense, straight-talking woman, said she was happy with her new assignment because it was in the field to which she had devoted her career.

She became known as the heroine of the thalidomide episode by refusing to permit U.S. marketing of the German drug despite what she described as the "great pressure brought to bear."

For this, Dr. Kelsey, 48, received a gold medal for distinguished government service from President Kennedy who told her that the hopes "we have for all our children" were riding with her decision to bar the drug.

He urged a non-government international study into the question of radiation in the Far North.

Contamination is highest in Caribou and reindeer because they feed on lichen, a type of northern moss, he said. The lichen retains virtually 100 per cent of the radioactive particles which fall upon it and may remain contaminated for many years.

Because caribou is the base of the food chain in the Arctic, Dr. Pruitt said contamination spreads from lichen to caribou to human.

'We'll Return' Cry of Cubans

New Invasion Talks In Exile Colony
As Freed Prisoners Greet Relatives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Talks of another thrust against Fidel Castro surged through the Cuban exile colony today even as freed prisoners of the last attempt were reunited with newly arrived relatives.

The relatives, numbering more than 900, came aboard the African Pilot, the vessel that took food and medicine supplies to Castro for release of 1,113 captives taken in the April 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion.

"We shall return," proclaimed Manuel Artime, civilian leader of the attack expedition, who along with other invasion chiefs met with President Kennedy in Palm Beach, Thursday.

"Papa Kennedy," as ex-prisoners call the man in the White House, announced that he will attend a ceremony in the Orange Bowl Saturday honoring the brigade. Exiles looking to ward future anti-Castro action interpreted this as a hopeful sign.

The Cuban Revolutionary Council, which dispatched the brigade to the Bay of Pigs, declared:

"An irrevocable resolution unites all of them (the returned prisoners) to return to Cuba with arms in hand to liberate the country from degradation and brutal vassalage to Soviet Russia."

Several hundred of the 463 women, 217 men and 242 children permitted to board the African Pilot in Havana—at the sacrifice of losing all their belongings—were quartered in a spacious Miami building provided by the Cuban refugee centre. The centre, operated by the U.S. department of health, education and welfare, also provided meals for returnees until they got settled. Others went to homes of friends or relatives.

The Cuban families committee, which, through New York lawyer James B. Donovan and with U.S. government help, sponsored the return of the prisoners, reported another boatload of relatives will come.

"The next boat that takes supplies of medicines and food-stuffs to Havana will return with 2,000 more Cubans," said a Families Committee official.

There was no immediate confirmation of this.

Kennedy told the Cuban delegation in Palm Beach that he "hopes some day to visit a free Cuba."

The Revolutionary Council, headed by Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, urged all exiles of military age to enlist in the U.S. armed forces. Some 2,000 already have done so.

JAMES B. DONOVAN

He Directed Whole Show —Not Bobby

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney James B. Donovan says that he alone, and not Attorney General Robert Kennedy, was responsible for the operation that brought 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners to the United States.

In a telephone interview Thursday with the Washington Star, Donovan implied that he could have finished the job himself without help from Kennedy at all if it had not been for the Cuban missile crisis in October.

Donovan, a New York lawyer and unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the Senate in the Nov. 6 election in New York, is counsel for the Cuban Families Committee which negotiated the prisoner exchange for $53,000,000 worth of drugs, food and equipment.

Reached at a cottage at Lake Placid, N.Y., where he is resting after long negotiations with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, Donovan told The Star that he has "enormous respect for the attorney-general, but it is absolutely and unqualifiedly so that the policy and negotiations were entrusted to me."

Government sources had reported previously that Kennedy had directed a team of government officials who helped manage the massive operation.

FIDEL FIGHTS FOR POLITICAL LIFE

Missiles Damage Castro's Image

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UPI Latin American News Editor

Smuggled dispatches from western diplomatic and other reliable sources in Cuba reported today that Fidel Castro is battling for his political life.

The dispatches, delivered in New York city, reported that his image has been damaged, perhaps irreparably, by Nikita Khrushchev's unilateral decision to remove Russian rockets and bombers and their crews from Cuba.

The Soviet action enraged Castro's student followers, Cuba's seven million people, meanwhile, were described as increasingly restless over prolonged shortages.

The dispatches said there was continued anti-Castro activity in the interior but described it as scattered and ineffective. More serious for Castro, they said, was growing discontent among the peasantry.

The dispatches cited "unconfirmed" reports in Havana of similar discontent within the armed forces.

Diplomats said that the internal crisis also has caused a cleavage in Cuban Communist ranks.

ally credited with having been instrumental in getting the rockets and bombers into Cuba, was described as "enraged" over the Russian role.

The dispatches confirmed earlier information of serious differences between Castro and Anastas Mikoyan, the Soviet deputy first premier, in their recent "peace talks" in the Cuban capital.

Cubans Pay 10% of Wage in Rent In Showplace Apartment Project

By JOE MCGOWAN Jr.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A workers' paradise—a tall apartment development where rent is 10 per cent of a man's salary—has been built east of the Cuban capital as a showcase of Fidel Castro's revolutionary government.

Prime Minister Castro is obviously proud of the multi-million-dollar, ultra-modern development and says more will be built by his regime.

He showed off the project, known simply as East Havana, to four visiting Americans during a two-hour auto tour of the city last Sunday.

Guests of Castro on the tour were Capt. Alfred Boerum, master of the freighter African Pilot; Leonard Scheele, former surgeon-general of the United States; E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., Washington lawyer; and this writer.

Boerum's ship had sailed into Havana that day with approximately $11,000,000 worth of food and drugs as down payment toward the release of Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners. Scheele and Prettyman assisted in plans for obtaining and transporting the supplies.

NO ROADS BETWEEN

As Castro's chauffeur-driven, heavily armed automobile approached the development, the director pointed out that a street circled the area but no roads ran between the houses.

"There is more security for young children this way," Castro said.

East Havana has its own shopping centre with a department store, barber shop, beauty parlor, pharmacy and a number of other stores. It also has a secondary school and a large recreation and sports field.

Castro looked over the development and said, "They have all been built since the revolution."

Each unit costs $6,000 to build, Castro said. He told the Americans there was great need for more such units in Cuba.

He called at random on several in the group which had gathered and asked them to tell the Americans whether they liked the project. Unanimously, they said they did.

One of the tenants, Juan Garcia, stepped forward and said he thought the project was "like a dream come true." He said he earned $158 a month as a showmaker and paid $16.80 a month in rent—10 per cent.

Atlantic Community

THE LARGER OBJECTIVES OF American foreign policy were lately indicated by two statesmen on opposite sides of politics but unfortunately the significant speeches of Mr. Dean Acheson and Mr. Christian Herter have been lost, or misunderstood, in the rush of events.

Mr. Acheson, a Democrat and former secretary of state, was quoted throughout the world as saying that Britain was "played out." This he did not say. He said that Britain's role as a great imperial power, operating quite independently from its allies, was played out. So it is. But in a subsequent passage, little noted abroad, Mr. Acheson said that such a role was no longer possible for any great power, including the United States.

It is regrettable that one sentence in the speech of a statesman always friendly to Britain should have been isolated from Mr. Acheson's plea for a new concept of sovereignty among the free nations, though no doubt his choice of words could have been happier. In any case, Mr. Acheson urged the United States to take the lead in unifying the military, political and economic affairs of all the Atlantic nations.

If the United States formulated constructive and co-operative policies, he said, they "would put us on the verge of another great advance in the development of the Atlantic Community and would require political agreements and political institutions of a most far-reaching nature."

Unless agreement on political and economic policies were achieved, he added, the best available forces would remain unused to resist the pressures of Communism.

"To supply their own growing needs, to supply a capital market for developing countries, to furnish the needs of an increasingly costly defence, the allied countries—by far the greatest productive area in the world—need common and integrated financial, economic and trade policies," Mr. Acheson said.

Simultaneously Mr. Herter, a Republican and also a former secretary of state, was advocating an Atlantic Community with political institutions binding Canada, the United States and free Europe. Specifically he proposed a commission of the NATO nations to draw up plans for these institutions; a permanent council "at the highest level" to co-ordinate national policies affecting NATO as a whole; the increased use of the NATO parliamentary conference as a consultative assembly advising the associated states; and an Atlantic high court of justice to decide legal disputes.

Thus from two of the United States' most respected elder statesmen we have no antagonism to any nations of the alliance but only a will to increase their unity. When they go so far as to advocate not merely the expansion of trade among these nations but to suggest political institutions binding them together, the vision of a true Atlantic Community, in which national sovereignty will be diluted, is becoming practical politics.

Indeed, it is the only practical politics for the states that alone have the military power to preserve peace, the productive power to expand the wealth of the free world and the power of political systems and traditions to preserve freedom.

An Atlantic Community, growing by stages as opportunity offers, should be the grand objective of all national governments and it should never be obscured by inevitable disputes of detail.

All Victorians His Beneficiaries

MR. THOMAS SHANKS McPHERSON had not been known to most Victorians in his later years. A retiring man, he had a circle of friends from earlier days here, but had preferred to lead a quiet life which seldom brought him to public notice.

Following submission of his will for probate this week, the names of few citizens are as well known today—none with deeper gratitude than that of the elderly gentleman who left a fortune to so many worthy causes in the capital.

The generosity of his bequests is matched by the careful manner in which he arranged for their distribution. Victoria College and the city itself are the main beneficiaries. Sharing the estate with them, or proceeds of the estate during the next five years, are a dozen institutions, agencies and societies dedicated to good works among the people of Victoria, young and old.

Mr. McPherson, revealing posthumously his deep affection for Victoria and its people, has bequeathed his holdings in a manner which will be of benefit to virtually everyone in the community.

The citizens, grateful for his benefactions, will look forward to formal action which will keep his memory green—an inspiration in citizenship and large-hearted devotion to the town he had made his home.

A First Instalment

THE STORY OF THE RETURN of the Cuban prisoners, followed by the arrival of the family relatives of many from Cuba, had just about everything calculated to pluck the heartstrings: a general Christmas background, the emotional meeting of husbands and wives, sons and mothers, fathers and children; the escape from tyranny to freedom; the realization that all this was made possible by the humane impulse of contributors to the release fund; the end of sus-

Portable Pensions

QUITE RECENTLY SCHOOL teachers of British Columbia, Alberta and Ontario have achieved an important breakthrough in portable pensions. Members of the profession in the three provinces can change jobs from one geographic location to either of the other two without suffering loss of superannuation.

In time, it may be expected, portability of teachers' pensions will be applied across Canada, and will no doubt lead to demands for portable curricula, so that students moving from one area to another will suffer no more scholastically than their instructors, moving, do economically.

But other educational considerations aside, the fact that teachers now have a measure of pension portability, and will achieve more, perse that has shadowed the lives of the victims ever since the abortive attack on Cuban shores.

All these elements combine to make the prisoners' return one of the outstanding and heart-warming newspaper stories of the past decade. But the world is full of political prisoners and refugees rotting in captivity or uselessness. When can the widespread genuine satisfaction of the Cubans' return be extended to the many thousands still needlessly enduring a living death?

surely suggests that similar provision can be made for pensionable employees in other businesses, professions and industries.

If it is possible for teachers, why can't it be done for everyone?

This is not to suggest that making portable pensions Canada-wide in all fields is simple. It isn't. But, as the teachers have shown, it can be done. Since virtually all members of parliament and most members of legislatures speak in favor of such a scheme, the constitutional and legal problems involved do not seem insurmountable.

Some progress has been made. Why not follow that up with action on a broader field? Talk alone won't accomplish the objective and the public is entitled to expect a little more action to supplement the talk.

What Makes a Russian Poem?

THE OTHER DAY MR. Khrushchev instructed Pravda to print a poem by Yevgeni Yevtushenko. Pravda printed it.

This is not surprising, yet it may give some indication of the scales on which literary work is weighed in the Soviet Union.

The poem in question was anti-Stalinist. It had been dropped from the book in which other works by the same author were published and the writer protested.

It is the right of an author to protest. It lies in the authority of Mr. Khrushchev to see that such work is published.

But one is left wondering. Was the poem published on Khrushchev's instructions because it was a good poem or merely because it was anti-Stalinist? Does a country with a great tradition of letters operate now purely on the basis of the political acceptability of what is written or on the basis of artistic merit?

If the former is the case, Russia seems to have established an infallible formula for the writer of pot-boilers. All he would have to do when income dropped to a trickle would be to think up another nasty thing to say about the former dictator. The market would be assured.

"... Gentleman here says he'd like $800,000,000 ... to take with him ..."

Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

FROM PARIS

By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Glacially Polite Negative

BEYOND much doubt, the strongest influence on Prime Minister Macmillan's Nassau meeting with President Kennedy, was the Prime Minister's unhappy recollection of his earlier meeting at Rambouillet with Gen. de Gaulle. It is too early to say, as yet, whether Rambouillet was quite the decisive and depressing turning point that it seems likely to prove. There is always the chance that Macmillan will take Britain into Europe on almost any terms, despite the great risks which this will involve because of the Prime Minister's deeply eroded political position at home.

Alsop

Yet the French government both hoped, and is inclined to believe, that Rambouillet was the beginning of the end of the British attempt to join the European Common Market.

After a series of bad setbacks in parliamentary elections, and with more than 50 Conservative seats partly dependent on farm voters, the Prime Minister mainly came to ask the French President for better terms for British farmers. De Gaulle's reply to Macmillan, it can be stated on undeniable authority, was a glacially polite negative.

Future Term

De Gaulle did not speak to Macmillan as a particularly enthusiastic European. Indeed, he indicated that his interest in Europe had sharply declined, since Chancellor Adenauer's promise to retire from office next year had put a future term to the de Gaulle-Adenauer brother act. He merely said that better terms for British farmers, ran counter to French national interest.

The plain truth is that President de Gaulle and most of those around him are no more eager to have the British join the European Common Market than they were last year. British entry is now characterized as a "dilution" of the European Community, whereas the usual Gaullist formula last year was that British entry would cause "Europe" to lose its personality. That is the only difference.

As last year, the French recognize that they cannot keep Britain out if the British choose to pay the full subscription fee of the European club. But with good reason, the French believe they can prevent the subscription fee from being preferentially reduced. This they still intend to do; and this intention was strongly reaffirmed at Rambouillet.

The outcome at Rambouillet might well have been quite different if Prime Minister Macmillan had been willing to sacrifice the Anglo-American partnership by offering nuclear partnership between Britain and France.

Brusque Change

Such an offer, of course, would have run directly counter to British nuclear commitments to the U.S. It would have been welcomed by Gen. de Gaulle, precisely because it would have involved a brusque British change of political partners.

But the British Prime Minister chose not to conciliate the French President by tearing up his strong commitments under the Anglo-American nuclear exchange agreement. The French half expected Macmillan to do just this, after the "provocation" of the Skybolt affair. Instead, Macmillan put the American partnership first.

Such is the background against which the Nassau meeting must be seen. At Nassau, the President and the Prime Minister swiftly cast the controversial Skybolt onto the junkheap. The British were then offered Polaris missiles as a substitute.

This offer was conditional, however, on British agreement to make their proposed Polaris-equipped nuclear deterrent a component of a future multilateral NATO deterrent, when and if this kind of NATO deterrent can be brought into being.

This condition was accepted. The Prime Minister is therefore being bitterly attacked in London for abandoning the content of a fully independent British deterrent.

Same Condition

At Nassau, Gen. de Gaulle was also offered Polaris missiles on the same condition as the offer to Britain. This did not give de Gaulle what he wants, which is to be placed on the same nuclear footing as Britain by the United States.

It also called on him to follow the British in making the French deterrent a component of the contemplated NATO deterrent, which is totally abhorrent to de Gaulle. One must assume, therefore, that the offer to de Gaulle was made with tongue in cheek.

Add up all these facts. The British effort to join Europe has received another sharp setback, although this might have been avoided if the Prime Minister had been willing to sacrifice the Anglo-American relationship. In addition, that relationship has been reaffirmed at Nassau in a way that has actually deepened the Prime Minister's troubles at home. And under the guise of equal treatment, what almost amounts to a joke has been played on Gen. de Gaulle—who does not like being a butt.

In this pattern, it is hard not to see the British Prime Minister clinging more than ever to his American connection because he has begun to lose hope of joining the European club. If this is the right interpretation, the troubles between de Gaulle and the "Anglo-Saxons" (as he calls Britain and the U.S.) are only just beginning.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Heatedly—and Why Not?

On Monday at 5:10 p.m. I saw an elderly lady on the crosswalk at Craigdarroch and Fort, wearing a light coat. She was about two thirds of the distance over the road. A too fast driver seemed unwilling to yield her the right of way. A very sharp twist with brakes screaming barely averted another terrible tragedy. The lady was my wife.

Indignantly I offer two ignorant suggestions. This highly dangerous crossing, necessary for the many old people and young children residing hereabouts could be zoned at 20 m.p.h. Also a citizen patrol might be installed for rush hours.

Tremendous as Victoria's traffic is, something could be done and should be done fast to make this spot safe.

I write heatedly, and why not?

1025 Craigdarroch Road.

Conflict

It is difficult to see any superficial differences between the five major political parties as they have evolved to the present day in Canada. In the leading Times editorial on Saturday about the Point Grey byelection it is stated that, "A majority of uncommitted British Columbians, we suspect, is yearning for a sensible, moderate, middle of the road party which can rescue British Columbia from its world-wide reputation as a province governed by erratic showmen, with the highest expenditures, taxes and debts in Canada."

"The Liberals present themselves as such a party and so do the Conservatives."

Then in the article immediately below about the Conservative victory in the Manitoba election it is explained about their leader, "Now he has four years in which to carry out his program of high expenditures with attendant high taxes."

The writer promises that B.C. Conservatives will not do what Manitoba Conservatives are doing now.

It is to be hoped that the time is not too far distant when the wage-working electorate will wake up to the fact that it doesn't matter how this employer-employee, or master-slave society is administered or what party administers it, our problems of insecurity, misery and war will remain with us because they arise out of the system and not the government.

Socialism, advocated only by the Socialist Party of Canada, is the solution.

J. G. JENKINS.

959 Darwin Avenue.

Fast Detour

Disillusionment with the Social Credit government, as expressed so definitely in the Vancouver Point Grey voting recently, should surely be projected as expressing the general disillusionment of all the voters of British Columbia.

A study of the political history of this province will reveal the fact that its citizens have always been willing to take a fast detour away from any politician who became too flamboyant and reckless in the use of hubbub.

It may now be Bennett's turn to feel the full force of the voter's irritation, if he will give us a chance by calling a general election.

H. V. O'REILLY.

Stealing Independence

N. J. McKinnon, president of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce is reported as being in favor of social security being placed on a self-sustaining basis with recipients paying premiums.

He also says the present system accounts for almost one-fifth of total government expenditures and its removal would make it possible to balance the budget and reduce taxes.

I would like to endorse this view from the standpoint of the individual worker dependent on wages alone. When I pay premiums I qualify for benefits as of right because I have paid for them and not as of privilege because a benevolent state has adjudged me in need. I can never feel obliged to hang my head when I pick up my social security as some kind of handout to someone who somehow couldn't make the grade.

No matter how innocent, no matter how hard-working, no matter how good a citizen a person might be, when he picks up a cheque which is not directly related to what he has subscribed from his productive years he has to taste the insolence of charity.

When a benevolent government steals my independence, I die inside.

PETER BAXTER.

Fort Camp, UBC.

"Help"

Re Social Welfare Agencies. I should like information. What purposes are they supposed to serve?

Recently, being in need of some advice, I phoned to ask for an interview with the director of one of the local agencies. Since there is a great deal of distress just now, I was not surprised that the gentleman was too busy. Finally I received a phone call and, after being asked what I wanted, I was told: "This is a financial agency."

A great many people need advice at times. There are matters which are not strictly legal, not medical and certainly not religious. In England, from my personal observation, people unburdened themselves to doctors or health visitors. I was under the impression that the Social Welfare Agencies here were for such purposes.

I should like very much to know the answer to my question.

The Uneasy Trade Partners

By HEDLEY RHODES
From Hong Kong

ONE of the most significant reflections of the growing rift between China and the Soviet Union lies in the deteriorating economic relations between the two Communist powers. Recently published commercial figures reveal that Sino-Soviet trade decreased almost 40 per cent in 1961 and is reportedly still declining.

Particularly meaningful was the drop in Russian exports of factory equipment to China, which fell in value from 433 million roubles in 1960 to 97 million roubles in 1961. During the same period, Russian exports of machinery to India more than doubled.

This decline in trade is believed to be fundamentally political in character, with Moscow purposely depriving China of many essential commodities as a means of exerting pressure in their ideological rivalry. At the same time, the Russians are insisting that the Chinese service and amortize their debt to the Soviet Union, estimated to exceed $2,000 million. China reimburses this debt by sending Russia food and raw materials, goods most needed at home.

Debt Moratorium

Though the Russians briefly extended the debt moratorium to the Chinese in 1960, it is believed that they are again pressing for repayment. Last year the Soviet press publicly stated that the Chinese were delinquent. Moscow has also asked the Chinese to repay them for Soviet supplied weapons used in the Korean war. The extent of this military debt is unknown, however.

Soviet economic pressure has deeply embittered the Chinese. Japanese recently visiting China were reportedly told by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai: "We made many economic mistakes, but our biggest error was to rely on the Soviet Union."

Economic friction between the Russians and Chinese goes back to the period following the Second World War. At that time, Stalin ordered his troops occupying China to dismantle an estimated $2,000 million worth of Japanese industrial equipment in Manchuria.

These were factories the Chinese Communists thought they would inherit. In subsequent treaties signed after 1949, when the Chinese Communists took power, the Soviets extended $430 million in loans to China. They also contracted to help build important industrial projects, including steel mills, aircraft plants and automobile factories.

Sent Technicians

In addition, Russia sent more than 10,000 technicians to China and invited about 20,000 Chinese students and workers to train in the Soviet Union.

None of this Soviet aid to China was in the form of grants. Furthermore, the Russians did not hesitate to make their assistance contingent on political considerations. In 1960, for example, Russian technicians were withdrawn from China as a result of the growing dispute between Peking and Moscow.

If the Sino-Soviet dispute came to a total rupture, the Chinese would have difficulties in some economic spheres. They are especially dependent on the Russians for petroleum, and receive more than one-third of their oil supplies from the Soviet Union. They pay for these purchases with commodities.

However, the Chinese are maintaining their momentum of oil exploration and expect to be self-sufficient by 1967. But if they were suddenly deprived of Soviet petroleum, it is believed that they could find other foreign sources of oil within a year or two.

Experts here consider that China's economic reliance on the Soviet Union is not a strong factor in keeping the Sino-Soviet alliance intact.

MARKED for READING UNMASKED

If I paint a landscape or a portrait I have to be continually in touch with my subject; even when I am not painting I need my victims. If it is a portrait, I want to see them in their natural environment; I have to tame them, and I have to "open" them also, because usually people are wearing a mask. Societies have certain conventions and people have to behave, and that—the mask—does not interest me. So it takes always a kind of psychological tin-opener to get into them.

—Oskar Kokoschka, Austrian-born artist and writer.

Year-End Violet

A single violet is blooming in the clump by our gate—a reminder of the softer days in the year gone by and a promise that if winter comes, spring can't be far behind. The little flower has been beaten by the rains. The winds have torn from it the blanket of crisp copper birch leaves that once formed its cover. This is not the delicately textured pride of the violet bed in late April. This is a child of adversity, obstinately raising its head, challenging the elements and asserting a small courage of its own.

Stott

Yet it helps to tell the seasons. It brings to the mind's eye the more fragile blooms flowering there after the explosion of crocuses and the stately procession of daffodils in the spring border. It suggests the more luxuriant blossoms of summer and the rugged, tweedy growth of autumn. It turns the pages of the calendar.

The months seem shorter now, more crowded with small duties, less spectacular than they were in a man's youth, though somehow fuller in the daily incidents of living.

And because the days move more quickly, they have a special savour to them. The crisp nights of winter with sparkling stars and the wine-sharp mornings become an experience with new freshness for all their repetition.

The rush of springtime with its almost visible growth in plant and tree, the quick flit of birds, the brief lash of equinoctial gales, no longer are something to be taken for granted, but something to appreciate.

Burgeoning summer, with its hot days and uncomplicated water play—the happy time of children—measures out its gold on more careful scales. And September of quiet evenings and diffused yellow light has beauties more apparent to the older eye.

At this time a man looks back over the months that have slipped one into another, recalling the birth of the year, its maturing and its waning.

Small impressions mark the days—hours on the water, trolling, when all cares fall away; the constant miracle of the soil and growing plants, the deepening pride in a city that stumbled at the start but found its stride to mark a hundredth birthday and march confidently into its next century, and quiet winter evenings by a glowing altar, fire with a good book living its story for the reader.

A man, turning the pages of his year, recalls the clearer meaning in words of old, friends no longer here. He remembers the phrase of a familiar, convalescing from severe illness, who defined the most precious experience in life as the kindness of people to other people in trouble, the compassion and sympathy of a fellow human.

He sees bright pictures in retrospect—a sober boy caught in the mystery of fish swarming to spawn, a baby gurgling and squirming in the new enjoyment of his first immersion in warm lake water, a sunset shared with another without need of talk.

He feels again the clasp of a tiny hand around his forefinger as a child makes his first faltering steps on unsteady legs—and from the soft pressure he draws the full meaning of trust.

At year's end a person lingers over the accounting of the days, finding joys and sorrows, the melancholy of time gone.

Perhaps he sees a lone violet blooming among the winter foliage in his garden, a hardy little flower—but dauntless in its message of spring to come and other springs to follow it.

Trouble in Store For South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—A warning that South Africa must expect increasing racial violence and sabotage in 1963 is published in the Johannesburg Post. This weekly for non-whites has good contacts with sources of information among the Negro majority.

The Post's article remarks that the last two months of 1962 witnessed three clashes between armed Negroes and white police.

"Political activities in this country have taken an alarming turn," says the Post. "There is force, and force is being met by force and the vicious cycle spins faster and faster. . . . South Africa will have to live . . . with a look over its shoulder in dark streets, with alarm at unexpected noise with fear."

South Africa's top policeman, Lt.-Gen. J. M. Kevy, pledged after the three outbreaks that his forces "will move heaven and earth to wipe out the Pojo terrorists." Raids have been waged, especially in Cape Town's segregated native townships of Langa and Nyanga, which are believed to be Pojo headquarters. Pojo is a Negro organization with the motto "we stand alone."

Several persons placed under house arrest by the South African government broke the order Thursday night following a decision by the Rand Provincial Supreme Court earlier in the day ruling one house arrest was illegal.

Percy John Hodgson, whose 24-hour house arrest was declared null and void by the court, left his house with his wife, under 12-hour house arrest, to attend a dinner party.

Michael Harmer, 1, visited friends and had dinner in a restaurant, Mrs. Helen Joseph, the first to be hit with a 12-hour house arrest, left her home to dine with friends.

Walter Sisulu, former executive member of the banned African National Congress, and Macdonald Maseko, an officer of the Swaziland Progressive Party, entertained at their homes. They are now allowed visitors under the terms of their dawn-to-dusk house arrest.

A. M. Kathrada, a former executive member of the Transvaal Indian Congress Party, went out to dinner.

Dates Set For Talks On Kashmir
RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Pakistan and India today announced agreement to continue their current negotiations on the Kashmir dispute in New Delhi Jan. 15 and 17.

Leaders of the two delegations to the two-day talks, Sardar Swaran Singh of India and Z. A. Bhutto of Pakistan, made the announcement after a 90-minute meeting on the second day of negotiations here aimed at ending the 15-year-old dispute over the territory.

Today's meeting followed a series of conferences Thursday—both inside and outside the conference chamber, and including United States and British diplomats—which centred on the effect of the announcement by Pakistan and Communist China that they had reached "complete agreement in principle" on their border.

The Chinese and Pakistani governments followed that today with a communique saying they intended to sign a border agreement "as soon as possible."

The Indo-Pakistani talks got off to a halting start Thursday with Pakistan attempting to convince the surprised Indians there was nothing sinister in its sudden agreement with China.

Indian delegation sources said the talks were progressing well, however, and there was room in the private discussions for "more flexibility."

Pakistani sources were less enthusiastic but said the talks would continue.

Loopholes Seen In Nassau Pact

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—The Anglo-American "pact of Nassau" is seen in some quarters here as a move away from the concept of a multi-lateral NATO nuclear force instead of the announced step toward it.

"Some competent sources here go so far as to describe as a 'hoax' and 'phony' the agreement reached by President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan at Nassau last week."

The U.S. agreed to supply Britain with Polaris missiles for British-built nuclear submarines which would be placed at the disposal of NATO. But, in the terms of the Kennedy-Macmillan communique, Britain could use the force independently when "supreme national interests are at stake."

Some authorities here regard this as a potentially dangerous loophole. Other NATO members, including West Germany, might obtain nuclear weapons with the proviso that they could be used independently in "supreme national interests."

Consequently, the pact of Nassau is seen as a means of increasing the number of national independent nuclear forces instead of reducing them or placing them under NATO control.

Competent sources added that Canada can be said to be already a member of a NATO nuclear force.

The RCAF air division in Europe was being supplied with low-level jet bombers and the U.S. held nuclear warheads for them at nearby bases. Canada long ago had placed the air division under NATO control—that is, under the command of the supreme Allied commander, Europe, who is an American.

LONDON LETTER

A Tip Top Hat Tip

LONDON—Visiting French fashion expert Yves St. Laurent has some definite ideas on what women should and shouldn't wear.

Asked which he considered the least important accessory, he said: "A hat. Though I would never present an outfit in my collection without a hat, I do not think they should necessarily be worn for a woman to be elegant."

I agree, after observing the so elegant hatless women here compared to Canadian and American women visitors who don't seem to be able to move anywhere at any time without a hat sitting up there on top.

SYNOPSIS—Arelle air which plunged southward Thursday brought the coldest temperatures of the winter to the central plateau area of the province during the night. At Prince George the mercury dropped to 27 below zero while at Quesnel a low of 16 below was noted.

This cold air has moved over the north coast and was moving into the southern interior this morning. However, it seems likely that the southwest wind will miss the main outbreak and temperatures will remain relatively mild.

By Saturday a return toward milder weather will begin as a slow-moving disturbance offshore moves toward the coast. This system should bring rain to much of the coast and spread cloud into the southern interior. Northern interior regions will likely remain cold.

Khrushchev Letter Called 'Grotesque'

VONN (Reuters)—A West German government spokesman today branded as "grotesque" and "defamatory" a letter from Soviet Premier Khrushchev accusing Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of obstructing world peace.

The letter, dated Dec. 24 and made public in Moscow Thursday, strongly criticized Adenauer and the West German government and re-emphasized Khrushchev's determination to reach a Berlin settlement.

West German spokesman Karl-Guenther Von Hase told a press conference one of the points made in the Soviet letter—that a German civil war could result from West German policy was "one of the most grotesque, absurd and injurious accusations ever made against the chancellor and the government from that quarter."

Khrushchev's letter, he said, contained no new statement or suggestion and its charges showed a great lack of understanding.

"The federal government will not allow itself to be provoked by this letter but will continue to strive with its allies for a solution of the Berlin crisis which will preserve the security and viability of Berlin," Von Hase declared.

In his letter, replying to one from Adenauer on Berlin border incidents, Khrushchev bitterly attacked West German policy as directed toward war and charged that during the October Cuban crisis West Germany tried to drive the United States into a corner "with no way out but an armed clash."

Khrushchev charged that every time there was a chance to "approximate" international views, West Germany began manoeuvring "for the sole purpose of frustrating agreements and deadlocking great power negotiations."

Reeves Pays $7.1 Million For LA Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Daniel F. Reeves has ended the battle of the millionaires for control of Los Angeles Rams with a bid of $7,100,000, the highest ever paid for a National Football League franchise.

Reeves, broker - sportsman and president of the Rams, outbid the triumvirate of Edwin W. Pauley, Fred Levy Jr. and Hal Seley at a private auction Thursday to gain sole control of the club, ending a seven-year feud.

Reeves will actually pay $4,800,000 because he already owns one-third of the club.

Reeves said he is taking over as general manager from Elroy Hirsch but will not decide on a head coach for a week or so.

Rozelle said negotiations to settle the ownership fight had been under way since last July. Reeves recently filed suit in court to have the partnership dissolved but this now will be dropped.

League directors must approve Reeves, as well as any associates, before the transfer is official. But this seems to be merely a formality.

The initial Pauley bid was $6,100,000 for the entire franchise. Under the bidding agree-

DESPITE OPPOSITION

Title Rematch At Las Vegas?

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite strong opposition, a rematch for the heavyweight championship between world titleholder Sonny Liston and former champion Floyd Patterson loomed today as a distinct possibility following a somewhat clandestine meeting between representatives of the two camps.

SONNY LISTON ... will get money

Promoter Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Incorporated, said Thursday he is discussing a rematch with Patterson and Jack Nilon, Liston's adviser.

A meeting was held Thursday night at Nilon's New York residence. Before the closed-door session, Nilon said Baltimore or Las Vegas are likely sites. The fight would be staged around March.

Under the terms of the return - bout contract Patterson has the right to name the date, site and promoter for the second fight.

"I hope we'll be able to iron out an agreement and reduce it to writing for a contract," Bolan said. "I don't think we'll be able to do it all in one night."

What about the two main problems standing in the way of the proposed rematch—Liston's purse from the first fight and the opposition of World Boxing Association officials?

"Liston will get the money (more than $200,000) before he fights," said Bolan's brother, Al, who is inspecting sites for the rematch.

Al Bolan has already inspected facilities in Baltimore and in Las Vegas.

PARDUBICE, Czechoslovakia (CP)—Saskatoon Quakers lost their sixth game of their 17-game European exhibition hockey tour Thursday night when the Tesla Pardubice Czech team scored in the closing seconds to defeat the Canadians 4-3.

More than 10,000 fans saw Tesla notch the winning goal with only 15 seconds remaining while both sides were playing two men short. The Quakers had taken a 2-1 lead in the first period but allowed the Czechs to knot the count 2-2 in the middle period.

George Dolana, a member of the Czech national squad, scored the winning goal on a shot that went in off one of the Saskatoon players.

Canadian goal-getters were Don Smith, Bill Lindsay and Maurice Olfredo. George Senick set up two of the goals and Jerry Esch assisted on the other.

The Quakers' outshot Tesla 39-7 but were stopped several times by the fine goalkeeping of Vlad Dvoracek. Saskatoon narrowly missed getting the tying goal from a face-off in the Czech end with only three seconds remaining.

Saskatoon's next game is scheduled for Sunday in Pilzen.

FIERY REDHEAD GETS CALL ...

Sullivan Steps In as Rangers' Coach

NEW YORK (CP)—George (Red) Sullivan, fiery playing coach of Baltimore Clippers in the American Hockey League, is reported to be taking over the coaching job of the National League's New York Rangers from general manager Muzz Patrick.

In a radio interview Thursday night, Dave Anderson of the New York Journal-American said he learned the change will be made within the next 10 days.

Sullivan, 33, a native of Peterborough, Ont., was captain of the Rangers and left the team last season after five seasons as a New York centre.

In Baltimore a spokesman for the Baltimore Clippers confirmed today that Sullivan will move up to coach New York.

The 32-year-old Sullivan will be succeeded in Baltimore, where the Clippers are in their first season in the AHL by general manager Terry Reardon.

Before joining the Rangers, Sullivan spent two years each with Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins.

If the report is true, it will be an odd switch.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK (AP)—George (Red) Sullivan signed today to coach New York Rangers and shortly afterwards sent the National Hockey League club through a brisk workout.

Speculators said Sullivan left the Rangers last year because Doug Harvey a former Montreal Canadian defenceman, had been named playing coach.

When Harvey was in Montreal he was involved in a skirmish with Sullivan in which the slight Ranger centre suffered a ruptured spleen.

However, Sullivan, playing coach of Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers in the Eastern Professional League last season, always contended Harvey's arrival at New York had nothing to do with him leaving. He said he bore no grudge against Harvey.

Last season the Rangers called the gritty redhead up as a replacement in the Stanley Cup playoffs, but Sullivan didn't get on the ice.

... TO PUMP UP GOTHAMITES

Harvey is still with the team but only as a player. Sullivan would become his coach.

The Rangers are mired in fifth place in the six-team NHL, 10 points behind the fourth-place Canadiens.

Patrick has been coaching the team this season in addition to his front-office chores. Harvey declined to return as coach but agreed to come back as a player.

Sullivan's name was mentioned at the start of the current season as a possible successor to Harvey.

Handy Andy Vaults Past Leafs' Big M

Stylish Andy Bathgate of New York has vaulted past Toronto's Frank Mahovlich in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Bathgate scored his 15th goal of the season and added four assists Thursday night as Rangers whipped last-place Boston Bruins 9-3 in the only scheduled NHL game.

Bathgate's five points gives him 37, one more than Mahovlich, who has 22 goals and 14 assists. The big Toronto winger had a four-point lead before Thursday night's game.

Bathgate, a 30-year-old resident of Vancouver in the off-season, now has scored a goal in six consecutive games. Mahovlich is currently on a five-game scoring streak. The longest consecutive goal-scoring streak in league history is nine games, held jointly by Montreal's Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion.

Rangers' nine goals is the highest total in one game by an NHL team this season.

SCORERS ENJOY FEAST

Bathgate's linemates, Dean Prentice and Earl Ingarfield, each scored twice. Dave Balon also scored two goals, while Camille Henry and Bronco Horvath each tallied once.

Boston's scorers were Jerry Toppazzini, Jean-Guy Gendron and Johnny Bucyk.

Bathgate and Bucyk moved up into a three-way tie for third spot in the goals department with Gilles Tremblay of Montreal. The three have 15 goals each.

Bathgate, though one of the more graceful players in the league, is a strong performer. In his eight full seasons in the NHL, he has missed only five games.

He has a hard shot with pinpoint accuracy. But his chief asset is his heady playmaking. He has played centre off and on, though most of his time has been spent on his present right-wing spot.

TOGETHER AS JUNIORS

Last year he led the league in assists with 56, tying Chicago's Bobby Hull for the league scoring title with 84 points.

He and Prentice have been linemates since they played together 11 seasons ago on the Guelph Biltmores junior club that won the Memorial Cup. Ingarfield has been centring the line steadily since last season.

The Christmas season seems to have been hard on the NHL clubs. A flock of injuries hit key players this week.

Forward Val Fonteyne of the Wings is expected to be released from hospital in Toronto today after recovering from a concussion. He was checked heavily into the boards by Toronto's Dick Duff in the Leafs' 5-4 win over the Wings Wednesday.

Fonteyne will miss Saturday's game, while veteran defenceman Marcel Pronovost, another ailing Red Wing, may miss the game with a pulled stomach muscle.

FOR 13TH TIME

Great Bob Cousy Still an All-Star

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Cousy, Boston Celtics' all-time great playmaker who is winding up his career this season, has been picked for the National Basketball Association's all-star game for the 13th time in as many years.

Selection of Cousy and seven other players for the East in the 13th annual all-star game at Los Angeles Jan. 16 was announced Thursday by NBA president Maurice Podoloff.

Eight players for the West were named Wednesday. The eight for each side were picked

Courteers Add Spice To Hoop Tournament

Competition in the second annual invitational basketball tournament for the Bob Whyte Trophy gets under way at Central Junior High School tonight, but not all the attention will be focussed on the four contending high school clubs.

Stepping squarely into the spotlight during the intermission between games on both nights of the tourney will be the Courteers, a group of 12-15-year-old Tacoma lads who are building up a big reputation with their remarkable ability to manipulate basketballs.

Courteers are not noted for their playing talents, but their skill in warm-up routines has made them a top hoop attraction.

GOLF SCHOOL

By SAM SNEAD

Instead of varying the distance behind the ball where your clubhead enters the sand for a sand shot, try always hitting the same distance behind the ball. For longer shots, however, use a longer backswing and more power into your swing. If the green is 25 yards or so from your trap, you'll want to use as full a backswing as we show in today's illustration.

For shorter distances, shorten your backswing. Also, if the sand is loose and dry, your clubhead will undoubtedly have less trouble getting through the sand. So, you'll need less power in your swing.

Wet sand, however, is more difficult to get through. Here you'll need the longer backswing.

Always aiming for the same spot behind the ball should be easier for most golfers.

Giants' Guglielmi Given Green Light

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP)—Ralph Guglielmi, New York Giants' second-string quarterback, got the green light from Dr. Francis Sweeney the club physician Thursday as the club drilled outdoors in 30-degree temperature for Sunday's National Football League title game with Green Bay.

Dr. Sweeney, who said Guglielmi would be ready, the ex-Notre Dame star appeared to be favoring his knee when he dropped back to throw passes. He was throwing accurately, however.

"The knee is better than it was Wednesday," he said. "A little improvement every day and I'll be right by Sunday."

In Green Bay, the defending champion Packers drilled in 14-below temperatures but were chased off the field by a snow squall.

Asked if he would predict a Green Bay victory as he did flatly last year, coach Vince Lombardi said: "The Giants are a much better team than the one we beat 37-0 last year."

And that was as far as he would go.

Lions Attendance Healthiest in West

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions chipped in a record $47,000 to the Western Football Conference gate equalization fund in 1962 and still produced a modest overall profit of $6,528.

President Clayton Delbridge, in the club's annual report, says the profit was a welcome bonus in a successful "year of building" that presented some difficult problems.

It followed a final total deficit of $41,000 in 1961.

Lions began the year with 3,000 fewer season ticket sales and spent $8,000 on a three-man inquiry into the efficiency of their organization.

They ended operations with a total revenue of about $688,000, an increase of $37,000 over 1961. Total attendance was 210,864 for the eight home games of a club that finished in fourth place.

The year before, Lions won only one game and drew 192,374 fans.

The contribution to the gate equalization fund was higher by $2,500 than last year, even though it was made on the basis of a lower percentage assessment.

Lions pay into the fund on a complicated calculation of the difference between their attendance—always highest in the west—and that of the four other clubs.

Among the major club costs were $428,462 for "players, coaching and training costs."

Quebec Clubs Pull Out; Oppose Puck Magazine

MONTREAL (CP)—At least half the minor league teams in Quebec province have dropped out of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, it was learned Thursday night.

The development is the apparent result of discord arising from a player-registration fee imposed by the national body governing sub-professional hockey.

In effect the charge is to cover a 12-issue subscription to Hockey Canada, the CAHA's new monthly publication edited by Len Taylor of Kitchener, Ont.

The magazine is sent to registered players by mail.

A reliable source said the program has run into vehement opposition in Quebec province and it appears CAHA registration has fallen off this season by "at least 50 per cent."

Last season the CAHA-affiliated Quebec Minor Hockey Association had 17,216 players registered from mosquito to juvenile leagues—covering youngsters 18 and under.

The informant said league convenors complained this season about having to act as "magazine salesmen" and team organizer—particularly in French-speaking areas—were flatly against it.

INJURED BOXER NEARS 100TH DAY IN COMA

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Boxer Alejandro Lavorante, knocked out nearly 100 days ago, is still in a coma.

But the Argentine heavyweight was able to eat a special Christmas meal at California Lutheran Hospital. Although he never opens his eyes, he has been responding to stimulants and taking food through his mouth for some time.

Lavorante, 26, underwent three brain operations after he was knocked out Sept. 21 by Johnny Riggins. Doctors haven't given up hope he will emerge from the coma but they can't predict when.

Ottawa Mayor Newsiest Woman in '62

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Charlotte Whitton, sometimes described as the ringleader of Canada's biggest free circus, has been chosen Canada's newsiest woman of 1962.

This is the sixth time women's editors of Canadian daily newspapers have selected the controversial 66-year-old Ottawa mayor for the title in a Canadian Press poll.

She first became woman of the year in 1951, her first year as mayor, and was named again in 1952, 1953, 1960 and 1961—other years in which she presided over the often noisy proceedings of the capital's city council—other years in which she presided over the often noisy proceedings of the capital's city administration.

In November she was again elected for a two-year term with a 6,000-vote margin over lawyer Sam Berger, the same man she defeated in 1960.

Her presence adds spice to the meetings of the Ottawa board of control where much of the language used in arguments is strong and where Miss Whitton has been in almost constant battle with controllers.

The lively activities reached their peak on Nov. 13 when the mayor and a male controller engaged in a display of fisticuffs following what Miss Whitton said was a personal remark that she wasn't going to take sitting down.

FIRST MINISTER

Runner-up in the woman-of-the-year balloting was Mrs. Claire Kirkland Casgrain of Montreal, 38-year-old lawyer and longtime champion of the rights of Quebec women. In 1962 she became the first woman cabinet minister in the province's history.

Another receiving support was Mrs. Hugh John Flemming, wife of the minister of national revenue and founder of the International Kindness Club, a children's organization that promotes kindness to animals.

Miss Whitton and Mrs. Casgrain also placed one-two in the public affairs category of the CP poll.

Literature and art — Mrs. Sheila Bournford, author from Port Arthur, Ont., whose first book became a Canadian best-seller.

Stage, screen, radio and TV — Actress Kate Reid.

Sports — Swimmer Mary Stewart.

Christian Clergy Sent From Sudan

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—An English Roman Catholic priest accused the Sudanese government Thursday of religious suppression after he and three other priests, as well as missionaries and an Australian Protestant mission, were expelled from the Sudan.

Rev. William Dowds of Durham arrived here accompanied by Rev. Edward Sloane of Belfast, Rev. Alwin Meyer of Amsterdam and Rev. Peter Kok of Hoorn, Holland.

Father Dowds said 55 Catholic priests and nuns had already been expelled, 36 of them in the last two months.

Father Dowds said that so far no violence had been used toward Christians, but added: "Violence will eventually break out—there will be an explosion."

Asked whether Christians had reacted, he replied: "No. What can you do against guns?"

'POLICE RUN COUNTRY'

Father Dowds described the Sudanese government as a military dictatorship, and said: "The whole place is run by the police and the CID (Criminal Investigation Department). Soldiers armed with rifles are everywhere."

He said the expulsions were the culmination of an anti-Christian campaign started by the government when it took control of the mission schools in 1957.

The four priests said they felt the suppression of Christians was racial as well as religious.

"The north is almost entirely populated by Arab Moslems and they are trying to impress their religion on the south and dominate the black peoples," Father Dowds said.

Impaired Driver Jailed 45 Days

Mark McGilvery, 1038 View, was sentenced in Saanich police court Thursday to 45 days in prison, and was prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for two years, after pleading guilty to impaired driving.

He was stopped driving on Cloverdale near Douglas at 1:10 a.m. Thursday. His head lights were not burning.

McGilvery's driving record included a conviction for impaired driving in 1954 and a fine and prison term for two convictions for driving while under suspension.

New Breakthrough in Typesetting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A high speed system of setting newspaper type automatically, starting at the reporter's typewriter, is announced by the Los Angeles Times and the Radio Corporation of America.

It is built around a computer which produces punched tape at 3,000 words a minute and feeds it into conventional typesetting machines.

Spokesmen for The Times, which began using the method Dec. 1, predicted Thursday great savings in money, manpower and time. They said any newspaper using 20 or more linecasting machines could profit by it.

This is the sequence: Reporters write their stories on electric typewriters equipped with tape punch units.

After the story is edited, expert typists punch tape on the corrections and changes.

The computer then produces a finished tape which incorporates the editing, justifies the lines to newspaper column width and employs a logic system to hyphenate words as needed at the ends of lines.

The tape is then fed into linecasting machines that set it in type.

The "computer composition" concept was developed by Otis Booth, operations director of The Times. He called it the first successful high-speed use of a computer in setting newspaper type.

The RCA computer will accept either typewritten news or advertising copy and corrections and produces tape rapidly enough to fill a 24-inch newspaper column in 17 seconds.

As the new system comes into general use, Booth said, a time saving of at least 40 per cent in setting news copy into type should result.

Newspapers have for several years used tape to operate typesetting machines but a skilled operator has been required to punch the tape. This system makes the writer the source of tape.

The unique feature of the system, Booth said, is its ability to hyphenate words properly. "It took a great deal of research and we feel this is a rather remarkable achievement."

The Times ultimately will require fewer than half the approximately 100 typesetters it now employs, Booth estimated. There will be no layoffs, with operators being transferred to other duties in the composing room, he said.

Times composing room employees are not represented by a union.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some people seem to have the impression I am fond of dogs, cats, and birds and beasts of every description. This is only partly true, as I cannot honestly say I have ever been on really affectionate terms with a porcupine, and the only time I ever tried to cosy up to a mink was when it was part of a coat.

Nevertheless, I have acquired the reputation of being soft in the heart (or is it head?) on the subject of domestic pets, and this no doubt accounts for what happened Sunday afternoon.

There was a thunderous knocking on the back door, and when I attended, I beheld a neighbor with whom I have only a nodding acquaintance.

And this neighbor was holding in his arms the tiniest of tiny kittens, a skinny little, smokey-grey thing with eyes the size of buttons on a doll's dress.

"Meow," said the kitten.

"Is this your cat?" said the neighbor.

"Good heavens, no," I said. "Our cat is far, far larger and does not have small button eyes."

"Yes, but aren't these small, button eyes very cute, small button eyes?" asked my neighbor, cunningly. "Here, you hold the kitty and look at his small, button eyes to see how cute they are."

Saying which, he thrust the kitten into my hands, with which the kitten nuzzled into my sleeve and turned on his motor at full purr.

"Are you sure," said the neighbor, "this isn't your cat?"

"Positive," I said.

"Well, it is now," said the neighbor, turning on his heel and laughing wildly as he headed up the garden path (not the same one down which I had been led.)

The end of this story should be that I now have two cats.

And I was willing. But the resident cat in our house wasn't. Apparently she hasn't heard of peaceful coexistence—and did YOU ever try to introduce a new cat to an old cat?

However, in case my neighbor's conscience is bothering him—which I doubt—the tiny kitten with the small button eyes is in good hands and will soon, I suspect, have a Holmes of its own.

(Well, you don't have to understand everything in this space, do you?)

1963 Pictured As Pivotal Year For Growing City

Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria should see some vital changes in both the civic and business fields during its 101st year.

City Hall and merchants spent most of 1962 involved in the centennial celebration but they also took significant steps that cleared the decks for a heady spurt of progress in 1963.

Two particular projects stand out as pace-setters for all the changes that will be coming: development of the civic precinct downtown and opening of the multi-million-dollar Mayfair Shopping Plaza uptown.

During the year the interior of City Hall will be transformed, construction of the modern annex will be underway and the centennial park square will start taking shape.

While the civic headquarters is being renovated, City Hall staffs will be spread out in temporary quarters throughout the existing buildings in the precinct area.

A national competition for sculptors also is likely to obtain the best design for a centennial fountain which will grace the plaza as a gift from the three outside municipalities.

All this activity at the city's heart is expected to ripple outward throughout the downtown area as merchants are encouraged to renovate interiors and paint up exteriors.

The economic reason for efforts to revitalize the downtown area will be self-evident by mid-summer when the huge Mayfair Plaza—featuring a Woodward's department store and food market—opens for business at Douglas and Talmie.

Death Blow for Smaller Centres

The impact of this shopping centre is hard to predict precisely but there is little doubt that it will be substantial—possibly even a death blow for some of the smaller shopping centres and certainly a vigorous rival to the traditional shopping core.

Although not directly related, the city's urban renewal program will be connected to one or other of the city's new "economic poles."

Present planning is to make a start sometime in 1963 on the North Blanshard housing redevelopment scheme near the Mayfair Shopping Plaza. But there is a growing worry

Determined Drive to Sell Parks

Serious attention to this problem undoubtedly will be deferred until the city's second civic parking garage is completed in the spring at Yates and Langley to see how the new traffic circulation develops.

Meanwhile, City Hall is expected to launch a determined drive to sell its Beaver-Elk Lake and Thetis Lake properties to the Greater Victoria water board which is jointly administered by the four municipalities.

Not only would this spread the cost, and the control, of these recreational areas over the whole community, the anticipated $2,000,000 price

Continuing Street Scene Changes

Street scenes also will continue changing into a now-familiar pattern as more high-rise apartment buildings and motels spring up along with downtown office buildings.

Completion of the new wing, construction of a psychiatric unit expansion and start towards more student residence accommodation and laboratory service at Royal Jubilee Hospital will be paced by opening of the major renovation and expansion program at St. Joseph's Hospital.

A few smaller—but more noticeable—changes also appear imminent: redevelopment of Bastion Square as a park-like plaza; opening of the first permanent pedestrian mall, likely on Broad between Fort and Broughton.

Finally, the groundwork for eventual Inner Harbor improvement, probably will be laid during 1963 with the city

Thieves Routed At Warehouse

Two City Yards Prepare Bids On Weathership

Victoria and Vancouver shipyards have received plans and specifications for one of two weather-oceanographic ships, and are preparing tenders to be submitted by April 10.

Appropriations for the ships were provided in department of transport spending estimates for the past two years, but the project was deferred without explanation.

Official announcement of the tender call was made by Transport Minister Leon Balcer in Ottawa today, although tenders were advertised for two weeks ago.

$9 MILLION

Construction of the first ship is expected to take about three years to complete at a cost of $9,000,000.

It is believed tenders for the second vessel will be called in about 12 months, so that the two ships will overlap in construction and spread the cost over a four-year period.

The new ship will replace one of the Second World War frigates based at Esquimalt, and stationed at Weathership on Station Papa, 900 miles off the coast.

8,400-MILE RANGE

Operating as a unit of the Canadian Coast Guard, the ship will displace 5,400 tons, with turbo-electric engines driving twin screws for a top speed of 18 knots. At 14 knots, she will have a cruising radius of 8,400 miles.

The ship will perform functions for the coast guard, for the transport department's meteorological and telecommunications branches, for the mines department and for the Pacific Oceanographic group at Nanaimo.

ELECTRONIC AIDS

Specifications call for electronic navigation aids of the latest type, including course recorder, two marine radars, loran and echo depth sounders. Special laboratories will be provided for the various scientific and technical groups, and anti-rolling tanks will be installed to permit efficient operation of scientific equipment.

A single cabin will be provided for each of the 96 crew members, and closed circuit television will help pass the time during six weeks' stints at sea.

Dairymen May Appeal To Richter

Vancouver Island dairy farmers plan to meet again to seek a way to dodge the blow of a new price order the B.C. Milk Board won't rescind.

Only course apparently open is a direct appeal to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, who has so far kept out of the fight.

This appeal will be considered at the meeting.

John P. Pendray, a member of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, said the meeting will be called within the next two or three days.

Milk Board chairman E. C. Carr said Thursday a B.C. Federation of Agriculture bid to amend the new price order has been rejected.

MODIFICATION?

However, he left the door open a crack by adding the issue is not yet closed and there will be further study with a view towards possible modification of the regulations.

But this did not impress island farmers, of which about 300 are affected.

They are protesting a new maximum price for fluid milk at the producer level. This is $3 a hundredweight above the minimum price for a lower grade of milk. It allows mainland farmers to undersell island producers.

COSTS HIGHER

They also protest that Island producer costs are higher because of freight charges on feed obtained from the mainland.

DESERTER FINALLY NABBED

A Royal Navy sailor who disappeared from the cruiser HMS Belfast while she was in Vancouver harbor last May has been found in the mainland city.

A. F. W. Glittens is being held by the provost corps there, while RCN authorities here forward a warrant issued on behalf of the Royal Navy.

The cruiser was in Victoria for Navy Day, May 22, following which she moved to Vancouver. Glittens was reported missing May 24. Another sailor also was left behind when the Belfast sailed from Vancouver.

EXACTLY CORRECT action was taken by Gerry Davies (right) today when he found metal cylinder on Dallas Road waterfront—he notified police, who in turn summoned RCN demolition experts. Object is probably aircraft flare or smoke bomb, therefore could be dangerous. ## Dunsmuir Daughter Dies in Portugal

Mrs. John Hope, 80, a descendant of the famous Dunsmuir family, died at her home in Praia da Rocha, Portugal, on Thursday, it was learned here today.

A daughter of Hon. James Dunsmuir, wealthy industrialist and former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, Mrs. Hope was born at Departure Bay, near Nanaimo, on April 15, 1882, and christened Elizabeth Maud.

LIVED ABROAD

She had lived abroad almost continuously since her teens, but returned to Victoria every few years. Her last visit here was in the summer of 1960 when she entertained relatives and friends at the Empress Hotel.

At that time she recalled memories of her brief residence at Government House, after James Dunsmuir became lieutenant-governor. A few months later she went off to school in England.

She spoke of her home in Portugal as "a perfectly beautiful spot, with acres of golden sands and beautifully-colored rocks, inhabited by a clean and industrious people."

FISHED UP ISLAND

When in Victoria, Mrs. Hope liked to go fishing up Island, and in 1960 she spent two weeks at Campbell River.

A world traveller, Mrs. Hope divided her main affections between England, Portugal and Vancouver Island.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Dola Frances Cavendish, 501 Belmont, Victoria; two sons, A. D. B. and F. J. Hope, and a granddaughter in England.

ONLY CASTLES

Her father, and his brother, Robert, built up an industrial empire in British Columbia and erected the only castles the province has ever seen.

MRS. JOHN HOPE

Craigdarroch, more familiarly known in the early days as Dunsmuir's Castle, is now the head office of Greater Victoria School Board.

Hatley Park, a baronial castle, surrounded by a square mile of forest and magnificent gardens, is now the centre of the Canadian Services College.

Early in 1910 James Dunsmuir sold out his collieries, his coal rights in the E and N belt and all his business connections and retired to the castle.

He died in May, 1930, at the age of 69. His wife, formerly Laura Surles of Georgia, lived on at Hatley until her death in August, 1937.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

"A" group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for an expedition to Goldstream camp for a winter bud and camp fire session.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

ASK THE TIMES

With deadline set for Monday, St. Joseph's Hospital building fund is only $17,894 short of its $350,000 target. A $2,844 donation from the Chinese community will be used to furnish a four-bed ward.

Q—If a person has been living in Victoria a few years and has come from Saskatchewan and needed an operation but wanted to go to her doctor she had been attending in Saskatchewan for her operation, would the B.C. hospitalization cover her hospital bill there for her? R.E.L.

A—Yes, provided the person is in hospital or undergoing treatment within three months of her arrival in Saskatchewan. It must be evidenced that the hospitalization or operation is necessary.

Q—Generally speaking, how frequently should a horse have its shoes removed and its hooves pared? M.E.P.

A—About every six weeks.

Q—Anybody wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and of general interest. The editors do not undertake to solve problems of legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

The Supreme and County Courts at Victoria courthouse will resume sittings next Wednesday, Jan. 2, after the New Year's Day holiday.

The divorce court will re-open Jan. 7, but the Appeal Court is not expected to sit again until Jan. 25.

CHRISTMAS

Christmas will come all over again for some 160 of Victoria's elderly people who will be attending a Salvation Army Christmas dinner Jan. 9 at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Gifts and entertainment will add to the festivities.

Major Ronald Frewing of the Salvation Army said the dinner was not held close to Christmas because the Army had too many activities going on at that time.

DRIVING

Donald Macmurchie of 3194 Rutledge Street, was fined $250 and had his driving licence suspended when he pleaded guilty today to a charge of impaired driving.

He was arrested downtown after failing to stop when signalled by a police officer. Evidence showed he narrowly missed hitting the officer who was directing traffic.

The accused changed his plea from the one of not guilty entered earlier when he appeared on this charge.

PROSECUTOR

Crown Prosecutor Angus Smith said the trial date was arranged to accommodate Charney Biln, a constable in the RCMP detachment at Drumheller, Alta.

Magistrate William Ostler issued a summons.

Continued cloudy weather with some rain is expected here tonight and Saturday, and

The next general meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held Friday, January 4, in the St. John Ambulance Building, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Mrs. Ena McCabe, 3984 Hollydene Place, was elected president of the society at a recent meeting. Also elected were: A. R. McMillan, vice-president, and George A. Wiggan, secretary-treasurer.

OATHS

Oaths of office will be administered to four aldermen and two school trustees by Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton Jan. 4 at 10 a.m. in the council chamber.

They were elected by Victoria Dec. 13. The group includes Aldermen Arthur Dowell, Austin Curtis, A. W. Toone and newcomer Cecil Parrott; trustee Mrs. Elizabeth Maudsell and newcomer Lloyd Clarkson.

CHARGES

An RCMP constable, charged with careless driving, failed to appear when his case came up for trial in police court today.

Crown Prosecutor Angus Smith said the trial date was arranged to accommodate Charney Biln, a constable in the RCMP detachment at Drumheller, Alta.

Magistrate William Ostler issued a summons.

Small Chance of Snow Here As Comox Gets First Taste

Snow mixed with light rain fell at Comox today for the first time this winter, but there is little chance of snow in Greater Victoria, weatherman Bill Mackie said this morning.

Continued cloudy weather with some rain is expected here tonight and Saturday, and temperatures will likely range from 38 to 45 degrees.

Mr. Mackie declined to give a forecast for New Year's Eve, but said there is a chance that colder air now centred in the interior may move over the Island.

Victoria was the warmest place in Canada Thursday with a high of 47 degrees.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Off with the old and on with the new!"—and on Broadway that doesn't refer exclusively to the New Year's period.

Around this corral, it probably means a bustup and a new mate.

Gloria Vanderbilt's around with young southern actor, Wyatt Cooper—some folks forecast marriage if she divorces Sidney Lumet.

TV Sensation Sandy Stewart of the Perry Como show marries Composer Emile ("Moose") Charlap Sunday. "I met him in Philly when I was 12 and he was 19. Then seven years made a lot of difference," says Sandy.

Mel Ferrer and Audrey Hepburn deny from Switzerland the suggestions of a breakup in their household—and I believe them.

Francine Sagan is shedding her American sculptor husband Robert Westhof in Paris.

WACKIEST YET But Jayne Mansfield's return to Mickey Hargitay—sending Italian producer Enrico Bomba home to Rome after a fast rendezvous with him here—was the wackiest bit yet, and I'd like to tell what I know of it.

My B.W. and I dined with Jayne and Bomba at the Four Seasons. Breathily, Jayne gasped of her love for Bomba. He evidently told her later that marriage was out.

"Jayne does everything based on the publicity she thinks she can get," a friend said later. "She will try to revive the Bomba romance again in a few months."

"Ask Jayne if she'd like to see a movie and she'll say 'Will there be any photographers there?' She doesn't care what the movie is. It's too bad that Jayne's letting her life be dominated by her scrapbooks."

The clothing of the late Eleanor Roosevelt was sold to N.Y. thrift shops this week but the shops were not told to whom the clothing belonged. It's a required step in settling the estate.

"Radio is trying to replace the newspapers in New York City," says satirist Mark Russell at the Village Vanguard. "But how do you think a radio would look at the bottom of a birdcage?" Russell also says, referring to the "Mona Lisa."

"When that De Gaulle sends a Christmas card, he really sends one."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Frank Sinatra's turning over much of his music business to Hank Sanacola, in the corporate splitup of the two long-time friends. Frank keeps his Cal-Neva Lodge gambling spot, at Lake Tahoe, for himself.

Bobby Morse confided to the "How to Succeed" cast that his wife's expecting again, in mid-summer. Ingrid Bergman's daughter, Jenny Lindstrom, has been working at a UNESCO in Paris as an information clerk.

Tony Bennett's getting $20,000 for nine days at the Brooklyn Town & Country, high for New York.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "To girls who know all the answers, nobody ever pops the question"—Robert Q. Lewis.

EARL'S PEARLS: "There's another advantage to being poor," Eleanor Hubbard once said. "The doctor will cure you faster."

"They say it happened after a wet holiday party. A soured celebrator called, 'Hey, porter, get me a cab.' A big man in uniform retorted, 'Young man, I'm not a porter, I'm an admiral.' The celebrator said, 'So all right, call me a ship'."

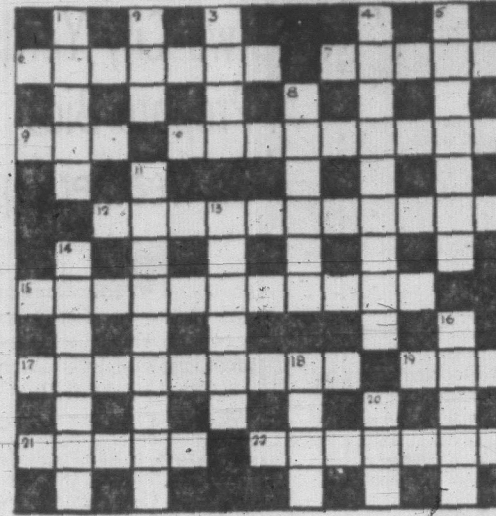

... That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to win? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by solid readers and those who submit the questions by select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the five questions answers each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and the second ever. Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Vick, age 11, of Newport News, Va., for his question:

How does quicksand get its sucking power?

Bogs and swamps, marshes and quicksands are booby traps for explorers venturing into new territory. Every year, a number of lives are lost in these tricky traps, and some, though not all, of these victims could have been saved. Most of the unlucky victims refused to be warned or failed to use good sense when they fell into a quicksand or one of its boggy relatives.

A quicksand is a treacherous patch of ground on a beach, a lake or a river bank. The surface may look exactly like the safe and solid ground around it, and in tidal areas a quicksand may be dangerous only at certain times of the day. A muddy bog may also disguise itself to look like solid ground. On the other hand, like a marsh or swamp, its surface may be overgrown with mosses, grasses or other healthy-looking vegetation.

A sensible explorer proceeds slowly into suspicious new territory and cautiously carries a stick to prod the ground ahead. Safety rule number one is to be alert. Learn to recognize and avoid these booby traps, and you will never fall into one.

A quicksand is a soupy mixture of sand and water too thick to swim in and too thin to stand upon. It is a trap in more senses than one. For the rocky formation below the surface acts as a solid basin to trap the soupy mixture of sand and water. Somewhere below ground is a hollow or pocket in a layer of dense rock. It is partly filled with sand, and water from the sea, the river or lake slops into the basin and cannot escape.

A bog or swamp is a similar soupy mixture of silty mud and water trapped in a basin. It may be the dregs from a drying lake covered with thriving green plant life. But there are solid sides to the basin, and perhaps, 30 feet down, there is a solid floor.

When you step into any of these traps, your feet begin to sink because the soupy mixture is unable to support your weight. It may seem that a quicksand sucks you down, but in most cases you merely sink, and the more you struggle the faster you sink. However, some quicksands fill up with the high tide, and the low tide drags out the sunken water on its return to the sea. The returning tidal water really does suck you down.

If you are unlucky enough to fall into a boggy mess of any type, remember rule two. Keep your head and not struggle. Keep your arms outstretched and wait calmly until you sink up to your chest. When your body weight equals the weight of the soupy mixture it is displacing, the sinking will stop.

As you sink, you may feel sucked down—which leads to panic, which leads to futile struggling, which may be fatal. Keep a clam head and refuse to move until your weight adjusts and the sinking stops. It is now best to wait for help. A skilled expert could show you how to save yourself, but this trick is too risky when one wrong move may cost your life.

WHAT'S THAT GREEN STUFF?

REVELSTOKE (CP)—Old-timers, gazing on the snowless terrain, say Revelstoke has just experienced its first green Christmas. In memory. The town came close to a snowless Yule in 1901, when snow fell Christmas Day. In 1938, an inch of snow fell at 10 p.m. Christmas Eve to leave an inch on the ground the following day.

Ballet 'Farm' Thrills Dancer

By MARGE GILROY
Lessons in ballet, in Russian, and given by a member of the Bolshoi Ballet Company. This is just one of many thrilling experiences for 13-year-old Wendy Elaine Walker, daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. M. H. Walker, of this city, since she left Victoria last September with a scholarship to study at the National Ballet residence school in Toronto.

The school, sometimes referred to as a "farm" for the National Ballet Company is now in mid-term of its fourth year of operation.

Even though it is a ballet school, it still teaches the three R's. In fact, emphasis is first on academic subjects and second on dancing.

"If our marks are poor then we have to miss ballet classes until they improve," says Wendy, who is home for the Yuletide season.

of students enrolled in the ballet division alone.

The school principal sees that the students have a well-rounded classical education and that a graduate is prepared for anything from perfect "arabesques" on world stages to academic scholarships to further studies.

All the arts are stressed. The school is just as interested in turning out good choreographers as dancers.

Only DON'TS are skiing, skating and horse back riding (for who ever saw a bow-legged ballerina.)

Posed here in graceful Ballet position, Wendy Walker would seem to be well on her way to the career she hopes to follow.

Students have Saturday and Sunday afternoons free to go for walks and see more of the city, which Wendy finds interesting. "The buildings are so high and the city is so flat." Most of all she loves the subway.

Sunday nights are just like home, "we help ourselves to a buffet supper and then gather in the living room and watch television."

There's a certain amount of fun time, too. "We have pajama parties and special parties on holidays and a dance or two during the school year."

"Food?" Said Wendy: "The meals are delicious but they do watch the menus closely."

A well balanced diet of around 2,400 calories is planned for each day by an experienced dietitian.

Asked if all ballet students were just naturally slim, Wendy replied with a decided negative. And, young as she is, she confessed she has to work at keeping to the right number of pounds.

"We're weighed once a week," she explained. "If we start to gain we are soon told about it and a circle goes around our name—until we lose the extra weight."

Holidays are a real problem in this respect and after two weeks at home—and at the Yuletide—Wendy isn't at all sure she'll be able to avoid one of those circles when she gets back to the school.

Lynette Walton Wed Saturday

Miss Lynette Dorothy Walton chose a floor-length gown of pure silk peau de sole for her marriage last Saturday evening to David Allan, Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Walton, 3944 Cumberland Road, and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allan, 1697 Knight Avenue.

The bride's gown featured lily point sleeves and jewel neckline with imported lace. The skirt was enhanced with a French lace train. A French illusion net veil misted from a single silk bridal rose. She carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white chrysanthemums and holly.

Three attendants wore a striking contrast in their red brocade taffeta dresses styled with softly pleated bell skirts. They wore red and white whimsies and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Matron of honor was Mrs. E. Bitterman; bridesmaid, Mrs. D. Smith, and bridesmaid, Miss Treva Lewis.

Best man was Jack Smith, and the ushers, Larry Williams and Charles Andrews.

Red poinsettias and pine branches set a seasonal note for a reception in the Balmoral Room of Holyrood House. The wedding cake was made by the bride's mother. Cousin of the bride, V. C. Walton, proposed the toast.

Here to attend the wedding were the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Walton from Vancouver.

Leaving for a honeymoon in the United States the bride wore a "vanilla creme" two-piece wool suit, large brimmed chocolate brown velvet hat and brown accessories.

On return the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Facial Exercise, Vitamins May Help Dry, Thin Skin

Q.—What can I do for a very dry, thin skin? I use a good grade of night cream and a hormone cream but I am still getting more lines and wrinkles. Would you suggest washing my face at night? I have been using cleansing cream.

A.—Since your skin is dry, you will be much better off using the cleansing cream. Don't change that. It seems that you are already doing the things I would suggest. You must use the hormone cream daily for results. I do not know whether or not you are doing this.

Facial exercises will help firm facial contour. Also vitamin deficiency is sometimes an underlying cause of extremely dry skin. You might take a vitamin supplement as well as eat the best balanced diet possible. Try vitamins A and C.

Q.—I am five feet, seven inches tall and weigh 114 pounds. I consume three malted milks a day and have gained some weight. However my increased poundage is in my face, which is round and large enough. My waistline has increased too. How can I prevent this?

A.—I don't imagine you have to worry about your waistline yet. There is no way you can control a gain of weight in the face. You can make your face look slimmer with make-up and hairstyling.

Special exercise is the only way to distribute weight nearer to the measurements you desire. If any of my readers would like to have my waist-slipping exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q.—I read your column every day and think you can help me with a question. I am five feet, four-and-a-half inches tall and weigh 133 pounds. My measurements are bust 37 ins.,

Aged Beauty

History records that Queen Elizabeth of Hungary was so beautiful at the age of 72 that the King of Poland asked her to marry him.

waist 27 ins. and hips 37 ins. My mother says I am just right for my age but I feel overweight and would like to lose an inch or so everywhere. Am correct?

A.—If you have an average build you are overweight some. If you have very large bones, you are just about right. If you do lose a few pounds be sure to do it sensibly. Eat three well-balanced meals a day but take smaller portions and substitute fresh fruit or water packed fruit for desserts. Do not eat between meals.

Q.—I am thin like my mother. I wonder if you have an exercise for building up my hips so that I would look better in straight skirts.

A.—It would be very helpful if you took ballet lessons. Try this one: kneel on both knees and place your hands on the floor in front of you. Straighten your right leg out behind you, toe on the floor. Now raise the right leg up and down slowly, with a stiff knee. After a while bend the right knee and replace it on the floor, straighten your left leg behind you, toe on the floor. Continue, alternating right and left.

Sharpen Your Palate With Cheese Appetizers

By PENNY SAVER

How often I have crawled away from the dinner table at Yuletide groaning, "I'll never want to eat again." But, after a long slumber, all I am left with is a memory and I immediately start thinking of what to eat next.

Cold salads and rye bread with cheese and salami are the type of things that I like to think of for the next bill of fare.

Even if you are having a dinner party, a smorgasbord is most appealing between turkeys.

The smorgasbord, which originally referred to an appetizer course, has as its basic components butter, cheese and herring. Now, with the addition of aspics, salads and cold or hot meats, it has expanded into a full meal.

Since we have one store in town that boasts of having over 250 varieties of cheese it would be a good idea to have a smorgasbord featuring some of these delectable morsels filled with protein.

A curried cheese spread is delicious on rye wafers. Add 3 tbsp chutney, 2 tbsp chopped preserved ginger, 2 tbsp grated fresh coconut and 1/2 tsp curry to one cup of soft cream cheese.

Olive cheese balls always make a hit. Cream one cup cream cheese, 1/2 cup chopped black olives and 1 tbsp butter. Form into balls and roll in chopped nuts.

The same store that boasts of all the cheese also has a large selection of party dips.

Something else to look for when you are shopping is a special on digestive biscuits—one-pound packages for 49 cents as compared with the half pound for 27 cents. This special will end shortly after the New Year.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

A new cedar specialty for Beauty Long Life Economy

What is "FOREST" Siding?

A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.

How Does "FOREST" compare with other siding?

It has more thickness, greater wood volume to add structural strength to any building. Its snug fitting makes good insulation and its low cost makes it ideal for modest budget home builders or remodelers.

How to finish "FOREST"?

"Forest" has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.

If you wish to preserve the natural rustic effect of "Forest" apply a coat of oil filler first, then varnish or shellac. "Forest" siding also takes paint beautifully if you wish a colored finish.

YOU can easily apply "FOREST" cedar siding

Wife Broad-Minded About All-Girl Crew

SAUSALITO, Calif. (AP)—After several delays, the ketch Neophyte sailed Thursday for Honolulu with a crew of four young women.

Skipper Lee Quinn, 35, of Los Gatos, Calif., a former steeple-jack, cast off from a dock here and headed his 45-foot craft toward the Pacific and the 2,400-mile journey to Hawaii.

Quinn will pick up his wife, Mary Ann Quinn, in Hawaii. From there they will sail to Tahiti.

Mrs. Quinn, competing in an international surf board event in Hawaii, admitted she was "a little surprised" when she was informed of her husband's all-girl crew plan.

"But it doesn't bother me the least bit," she added.

Burned to Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—An unemployed electrical worker died and three of his four children suffered burns and partial suffocation in a fire Thursday at the family's home.

The badly-charred body of John H. Conners, 45, was found on a smoldering chest-of-drawers.

'Amahl' Called Triumph for All 800 See Opening Performance

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The stage is a blaze of light and color amid the great shadowy pillars of Christ Church Cathedral, and over it moves a stately procession of kings in rich oriental robes, their finery contrasting with the simple garb of a crippled boy and his widowed mother.

Behind them—lost in a whirl of shadows—is the high altar of the cathedral, a silent witness to the wistful story of an adventure along the road to Bethlehem.

Such is the magical setting for "Amahl and the Night Visitors," a religious opera written by contemporary Italian composer Gian-Carlo Menotti and given its first performance by a talented assembly of singers and actors Thursday night.

It will be repeated in the cathedral tonight and Saturday and on four nights next week at 8 p.m. It is a triumph for all concerned and in many ways an improvement on the first production of "Amahl" given here three years ago at this time.

DREAM-LIKE

The superb lighting, arranged by Maurice Johnson with $4,000 worth of equipment borrowed from the Theatre Under the Stars in Vancouver, brings out a dream-like quality in the story—and the music, directed by Richard Proudman, is interpreted with reverence and beauty.

The overall direction by Audrey St. Denis Johnson, music and drama editor of The Victoria Times, is notable for the excellent timing and close attention to detail.

"It is the finest religious pageant I have ever seen," commented a well-travelled member of the audience of more than 800 who watched Thursday's performance.

APPEALING

In the title role, 14-year-old Jonathan Peter is plaintive and appealing as the crippled boy who welcomes the three wise kings to his mother's humble abode—a shepherd's hut of rough clay set up close by the cathedral pulpit.

Peggy Walton Packard gives the kind of performance that is usually expected of her as the boy's mother. Her lyrical singing voice brings out the full poetic beauty of the verse and is matched by fine acting.

The three wise kings are robustly interpreted by Norman Tyrell as the comical Kaspar, Stanley Martin as Melchior, and Derek McDermott as Balthazar. Their triumphal procession around the cathedral gallery and down the stone steps to the brightly lit stage is one of the highlights of the presentation.

GRACEFUL MIMES

The three kings are heard in some magnificent harmonic singing as they tell of following the sacred star to the newborn babe in the manger, and are ably supported by Larry Johns in the role of their servant.

A graceful mime of welcome to the kings is performed by Sandra Begg, Barbara Hodgson, Wendy Packard, Bonnie Rutherford and Lydia Watt, with a supporting cast of shepherds and villagers represented by Gladys Painter, Joan Di Castri, Grace Tuckey, Bill Beardsley, Bruce Banyard, Hugh Gwynne, John Patriarche, Elizabeth Courtinall, Andrew Pether and Debbie Proudman.

Behind the stage is a richly blended chorus composed of members of the choir of Christ Church Cathedral, St. Philip's Church, Victoria Choral Society and other groups.

Maurice Johnson's technical director, with Archie Lightbody as production assistant; Margaret Hall in charge of costume design; Evelyn Johnson as wardrobe mistress; Grace Gayfer in charge of properties; Ken Bostock responsible for make-up and Lisel Pether directing the mime.

An effective instrumental ensemble of two pianos and organ is provided by Catherine Shore, Lynne Dougan and Richard Proudman, and the production crew is made up of cathedral servers under the direction of Jim Robertson.

The first-night audience was welcomed from the pulpit by Dean Brian Whitlow, who said the production had necessitated an expenditure of more than $1,000.

"It is not the policy of the cathedral to sell tickets or make fixed admission charges; but we need to meet our expenses and we ask you to contribute as generously as possible to the collection."

"Amahl and the Night Visitors" is probably the first opera ever written for television. It was specially commissioned by the NBC network and first performed in New York on Dec. 24, 1951.

The first performance in Victoria was directed by Audrey St. Denis Johnson and presented in the cathedral in the last week of 1959.

Victoria Loses Separate Status In Civil Defence Reorganization

A cabinet order-in-council this week eliminated Victoria target area as a separate entity under the provincial civil defence set-up.

The unit, including Greater Victoria and all other communities and unorganized areas north to Chemainus was organized 14 months ago as an expansion of Greater Victoria target area.

Co-ordinator William Mathers was appointed to organize a detailed master plan of disaster services and roles to be played in the event of civil or nuclear emergency.

V.I. MAINLAND

His task ended this month with the integration of the target area with the Victoria target zone, a vast area encompassing all of Vancouver Island and half the B.C. mainland coastline.

Mr. Mathers now is director of operations and plans in the provincial civil defence headquarters, under co-ordinator James Lister.

J. D. Somerville, former deputy target area co-ordinator, is now acting co-ordinator of the Victoria area.

RETIRED

The former director of operations and plans, William Edmondson, has taken the place of A. P. Musgrave, as provincial emergency measures planning officer for the provincial secretary. Mr. Musgrave has retired.

With integration of the Victoria target area—one of 16 metropolitan areas across Canada designated as likely targets in wartime—the Victoria target zone embraces two individual areas.

The other is known as Nanaimo and Powell River area, whose co-ordinator is H. E. Snider, of Nanaimo.

The limits of the total zone extend from the west coast of Vancouver Island to Bella Bella, inland to Bella Coola and Kleena Kleene, then south to Powell River.

SIX ZONES

It makes six straight zones within the province, each reporting directly to the office of provincial co-ordinator.

In explaining the shuffle, Mr. Lister described the changes as "tidying up" zonal arrangements.

"There were certain tasks of organization and planning that had to be resolved within the past year. Now these tasks are completed."

No change has been made in the internal organization covering municipal civil defence structure.

Diphtheria Death Here

First diphtheria death here in more than a decade was confirmed today by a final laboratory test but health officials stressed there was no cause for alarm.

"We have traced all the contacts and tested them and none have proved carriers but they have been treated as a precaution," said metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread.

A 30-year-old woman, who has not been identified, succumbed to the disease this week. She was believed the first such case since the mid-1940s.

"There is no cause for alarm and no need for any emergency wholesale immunization."

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

"All doctors in the community have been notified through the hospitals in the routine manner and there is no need for any public upset because all the precautions were taken."

He said it had not been determined precisely how the woman contracted the disease but it was known that she was never immunized for diphtheria.

"This points up the need for parents to make sure their children are immunized. The health board has diphtheria immunization clinics for pre-school children regularly and school children also are covered."

SERIOUSLY SICK

Dr. Whitbread said the woman had been seriously ill for some time and when she began showing diphtheria symptoms immediate precautions were taken to trace and test all contacts.

Preliminary laboratory tests however did not indicate diphtheria but a special test taken after her death, and completed this morning, showed positive.

Diphtheria is a bacterial infection of the throat and nasal passages which can result in weakening of the heart or central nervous system.

NOW RARE

"It used to be quite common between the two world wars—there were large isolation hospitals for it—but it has become very rare today," said Dr. Whitbread.

Credit for virtually stamping out the disease goes to the widespread immunization programs and pasteurization of milk.

Plea to End Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz has re-entered the crippling dock strike with an urgent plea to both longshoremen and ship owners to resume negotiations in the name of the national interest.

Reduced Deficit Budget Objective

Times Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA.—Finance Minister George Nowlan will bring down his first budget after Feb. 15 with the objective of narrowing the budgetary deficit. It will be a hold-the-line budget.

Under the guidance of the new minister of finance, aided and abetted in the cabinet by Senator Wallace MacIntosh, the government will follow a policy of trying to raise federal revenues so that they will exceed federal expenditures.

It is a tough job, but the effort is being made.

Consequently Canadians can not look for any important tax cuts in the coming budget. The government hopes to avoid any major increases in taxation. But if it is serious in its efforts to reduce the deficit by any sizeable amount it may have to impose some tax increases. This is a move

BRITISH AIRLINER FLIPS

Crumpled wreckage of British passenger-cargo plane lies upside down on snow-covered Rotterdam airport today after crashing into dike at end of runway and flipping over four times. Pilot was killed but 12 passengers and three other crew members escaped serious injury. The twin-engine craft, operated by British Air Ferries, skidded after touching down on runway. (AP Wirephoto.)

Damage Toll Mounts As Cold Grips Europe

WIRE BRIEFS

Pardon Not 'Bought'

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago American reported today John (Jake) The Barber Factor declared in an interview, "I did not buy my pardon." After talking with Factor by telephone to his Beverly Hills, Calif., home, Harry Romanoff and George Murray reported Factor told them, "The records will show that my pardon was open and above-board."

Quints Were Hoax

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Cordoba Police Chief Alberto Horodas today termed a "hoax" reports reaching here Thursday night of the birth of quintuplets to a peasant couple at Simbar, remote interior village. Horodas said he had been unable to confirm the report.

Progress Reported

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (Reuters)—India and Pakistan today reported "some progress" in their negotiations here on the Kashmir dispute and agreed to continue talks in New Delhi next month. (See page 5.)

LONDON (AP)—Estimates of crop damage mounted today as a heavy cold and a sheath of ice and snow continued to cover much of Europe.

Unofficial estimates put the loss in Spain's citrus crop at $85,000,000 as the result of one of the worst cold waves of the century.

Elsewhere in Europe the bitter cold showed no signs of abating.

Small footprints in the snow led searchers to the bodies of a nine-year-old boy and his six-year-old sister who fell through the ice while skating on a pond in Staffordshire, England.

Three persons were reported frozen to death at Bilbao in northern Spain.

Rising temperatures eased the cold in southern Spain, but melting snows and rain caused floods, and at least three persons drowned at Utrera near Sevilla. Others were feared to have drowned at Algeciras.

Road crashes killed 14 people in Britain during the five-day Christmas period. Some were victims of ice-filmed roads.

Fresh snow fell on hundreds of miles of already ice-covered roads in southwest England Thursday night and Cornwall county was described by one resident as "a giant skating rink."

At Uckfield, south of London, a foot of snow fell and then froze solid.

Automobile Association authorities warned Thursday that roads in all 52 counties of Britain were affected by snow and ice and one official said he had received "hundreds of reports of cars sliding off the roads like spinning tops. It's like a gigantic stock car race."

British trains and subways, unprepared for the ice, were held up and many persons were late returning to work after the freezing Christmas holiday—one of the coldest on record.

TSHOMBE HAS LOST CONTROL

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A United Nations spokesman said today it appears President Moise Tshombe of the Congo's Katanga Province has lost control of his police forces in Elisabethville.

New Blast Shatters The Wall

BERLIN (AP)—The biggest explosive assault ever against the wall dividing Berlin was carried out before dawn today.

There was no immediate indication of who set the blast.

The explosion ripped a three-foot-square hole in the wall and smashed 600 windows in neighboring buildings, including 150 in a fire brigade headquarters.

West Berlin police said it was the biggest explosive charge laid against the wall in its 16 months of existence, although previous smaller explosions have caused more damage to the wall itself.

They believed the people responsible were interrupted at their work. The charge was not embedded in the wall before it went off, which accounted for the comparatively slight damage to the wall itself and the considerable destruction away from it.

HITS SAME SPOT

The explosion went off 100 yards from the site of another explosion Dec. 16. That time three men set a charge, and gave themselves up to police five minutes before it went off.

Both blasts went off in the Jerusalemstrasse, 800 yards from the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie, at Friedrichstrasse.

Nobody was hurt in today's explosion but a wooden weather shelter used by West Berlin police was ripped apart. It was empty at the time.

West Berlin police estimated that explosives equal to about 22 pounds of TNT were used for the blast.

Peace Dam Bids Called

B.C. Hydro announced today it will call tenders for the huge Portage Mountain dam on the Peace River, Jan. 8.

Bids will be opened April 1 and a contract awarded around May 1, Hydro chairman Dr. Gordon I. Shrum announced.

Dr. Shrum said the world's largest contractors from Canada, United States and Europe will bid on the job expected to cost about $80,000,000.

Firms who bid must make either a cash deposit or bond of $3,000,000. The contract winner will have to put up a 50 per cent performance bond.

The dam, near Hudson Hope, will be one mile long and will contain 60,000,000 cubic yards of fill.

Paratroopers Invade Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—United Nations troops have fought their way into and captured the Katanga Provincial gendarmerie headquarters in Elisabethville, UN headquarters here said tonight.

A headquarters spokesman said the UN troops cleared Katanga roadblocks.

He said about 1,000 Indonesian UN paratroopers arrived in Albertville, north of Elisabethville, and prepared to move into the Katanga capital.

All UN civilians had been ordered to evacuate Elisabethville, he said.

By DENNIS KILEY

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters)—Large-scale firing which broke out around Elisabethville at about 9 p.m. Thursday night continued today and Katanga Province's gendarmes are bombarding Ethiopian United Nations troop positions with heavy mortars.

Firing could still be heard, though UN troops are standing by with instructions to fire only in self defence while repulsing a physical attack.

This Reuters correspondent understood from the highest UN authority, however, that the UN forces will counter-attack today on at least two different fronts.

A UN officer said this would be "with a view to getting hold of the mercenaries who are probably backing them (the Katangans) and giving them the courage to carry on firing at us."

A UN battalion will attack the Katanga positions at the Elisabethville golf course, the officer said, and the Ethiopians will "clean up" the Union Miniere guesthouse, from which mercenaries were reported firing on Ethiopian positions.

This correspondent was pinned down all night in a house just inside UN Indian Gurkha positions with a Katanga heavy machine-gun post 80 yards away.

Firing started at 9 p.m. Thursday night and went on without interruption all night although it was pitch dark and raining. The Gurkhas took up their positions and from time to time fired back.

A Gurkha lieutenant told this correspondent about 4 a.m. today his troops were firing at Katangans they could see creeping up on them through the grass.

fire only if the Katangans came within a few yards of them. He thought they had killed one.

Chief UN representative Eliud Mathu and the UN general officer, commanding the Katanga area, Indian General Prem Chand, together with the Elisabethville UN commanding officer, Indian Brigadier Noronha, took Katanga President Moise Tshombe up to the firing positions at the golf course about 10 p.m. to see for himself what his men were doing.

Tracers could be seen streaking towards the Gurkha positions at that stage.

Forced to Watch Shooting

An Indian officer said Prem Chand he would stop the firing by this morning.

Firing was continuing as this was written however. Tshombe and his ministers had been restricted to the city since Dec. 24 "to insure that they will be there to maintain order," according to Mathu.

Their official cars have been turned back on several occasions when they attempted to leave.

However, they were reported to have been allowed to

The broadcast, heard at Key West, said both locomotive engineers, who suffered minor injuries, were arrested pending an investigation.

'Package Deals' Protect Imbibers

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of establishments catering to New Year's Eve celebrants are emphasizing programs to keep their patrons off the highways.

Setting the pace are big clubs and hotels in Los Angeles. A new-paper cafe columnist says police warnings on drunken driving, police roadblocks, and a crackdown on traffic violations have made it harder to lure people out of the big suburban areas for the evening of celebrants in the city.

Several Los Angeles hotels are offering a free room with their package deals for New Year's Eve at prices up to $67.

One hotel's plan includes a party at the Coconut Grove, a night's lodging and a bus ride the next morning to the Rose Bowl parade in Pasadena. A hotel in Beverly Hills

Calif., has changed its package deal to exclude drinks, making the price cheaper, and eliminating the obligation of celebrators to drink up their money's worth before heading home.

The most exclusive celebration in the Los Angeles area will be the black-tie affair at the Mike Romanoff's Beverly Hills restaurant. Many Hollywood celebrities are expected to attend the party, featuring three orchestras and an abundance of fine foods for which the restaurant is noted.

Howard Johnson's motor lodge chain in Columbus, Ohio, has a $17-a-couple deal with overnight accommodations for two, dancing, swimming, buffet supper and breakfast on New Year's Day. Other clubs in the city have cover charges from $3 to $3.50.

Churches will open their doors for traditional and ever-popular watch-night services. Prayers will be offered for world peace. Millions of families will spend New Year's Eve at their hearthside. Others will celebrate with friends in private homes.

One of the world's most famous celebrations takes place in New York City's Times Square, where thousands jam streets and sidewalks to yell, cheer and have toes and ribs bruised.

In the country's major cities the average nightclub price will range around $25 a person which usually includes dinner, noise makers, fun hats and confetti but not drinks.

A lot o' them Cuban families hev missed th' boat. But then, o' course, so has Fidel. They're firin' in anga Again in Kananga. M'Uncle Zeke sez he'd like t' leave his life savin' th' city, but they already got 'em—fer overparking.

MONTE ROBERTS

Some people seem to have the impression I am fond of dogs, cats, and birds of every description. This is only partly true, as I cannot honestly say I have ever been on really affectionate terms with a porcupine, and the only time I ever tried to cozy up to a mink was when it was part of a coat.

Nevertheless, I have acquired the reputation of being soft in the heart (or is it head?) on the subject of domestic pets, and this no doubt accounts for what happened Sunday afternoon.

There was a thunderous knocking on the back door, and when I attended, I beheld a neighbor with whom I have only a nodding acquaintance.

And this neighbor was holding in his arms the tiniest of tiny kittens, a skinny little, smokey-grey thing with eyes the size of buttons on a doll's dress.

"Me-yow," said the kitten.

"Is this your cat?" said the neighbor.

"Good heavens, no," I said. "Our cat is far, far larger and does not have small button eyes."

"Yes, but aren't these small button eyes very cute, small button eyes?" asked my neighbor, cunningly. "Here, you hold the kitty and look at his small, button eyes to see how cute they are."

Saying which, he thrust the kitten into my hands, with which the kitten nuzzled into my sleeve and turned on his motor at full purr.

"Are you sure," said the neighbor, "this isn't your cat?"

"Positive," I said.

"Well, it is now," said the neighbor, turning on his heel and laughing wildly as he headed up the garden path (not the same one down which I had been led.)

The end of this story should be that I now have two cats.

And I was willing. But the resident cat in our house wasn't. Apparently she hasn't heard of peaceful coexistence—and did YOU ever try to introduce a new cat to an old cat?

However, in case my neighbor's conscience is bothering him—which I doubt—the tiny kitten with the small button eyes is in good hands and will soon, I suspect, have a Holmes of its own.

(Well, you don't have to understand everything in this space, do you?)

Ore Spilled On Malahat

A giant flat deck trailer went off the highway, at the summit of the Malahat early today and spilled about 20 tons of copper ore.

The driver, Deleip Singh Gill of New Westminster, escaped unhurt but there is about $7,000 damage to the truck and trailer. In addition the ore, valued at about $4,000, may also be a loss.

The accident spread heavy diesel oil over the highway creating a hazard for traffic. Highway department crews had to be called out to clear the road.

RCMP said the driver lost control of the vehicle which crossed into the left lane as it proceeded north. The rear wheel went off the road, tipped the trailer and spilled the load.

The left lane was not blocked by the accident and traffic was able to proceed north and south without interruption.

1963 Pictured As Pivotal Year For Growing City

Times City Hall Reporter

Victorians should see some vital changes in both the civic and business fields during its 101st year.

City Hall and merchants spent most of 1962 involved in the centennial celebration but they also took significant steps that cleared the decks for a heady spurt of progress in 1963.

Two particular projects stand out as pace-setters for all the changes that will be coming: development of the civic precinct downtown and opening of the multi-million-dollar Mayfair Shopping Plaza uptown.

During the year the interior of City Hall will be transformed, construction of the modern annex will be underway and the centennial park square will start taking shape.

While the civic headquarters is being renovated, City Hall staffs will be spread out in temporary quarters throughout the existing buildings in the precinct area.

A national competition for sculptors also is likely to obtain the best design for a centennial fountain which will grace the plaza as a gift from the three outside municipalities.

All this activity at the city's heart is expected to ripple outward throughout the downtown area as merchants are encouraged to renovate interiors and paint up exteriors.

The economic reason for efforts to revitalize the downtown area will be self-evident by mid-summer when the huge Mayfair Plaza—featuring a Woodward's department store and food market—opens for business at Douglas and Tolmie.

More directly related to the downtown-uptown tug of war will be the question of one-way streets which likely will see action after years of talk. Leading expectations is that the city will venture slowly into this field, perhaps only involving four streets initially.

Present planning is to make a start sometime in 1963 on the North Blanshard housing redevelopment scheme near the Mayfair Shopping Plaza.

But there is a growing worry at City Hall that this might sidetrack the urban renewal program from the worst slum area—Chinatown. If the federal government can be convinced to participate in a non-residential redevelopment scheme, the odds are that the Chinatown area on the fringe of the civic precinct will be the city's first major redevelopment program.

Although not directly related, the city's urban renewal program will be connected to one or other of the city's new "economic poles."

Two City Yards Prepare Bids On Weathership

Victoria and Vancouver shipyards have received plans and specifications for one of two weather-oceanographic ships, and are preparing tenders to be submitted by April 10.

Appropriations for the ships were provided in department of transport spending estimates for the past two years, but the project was deferred without explanation.

Official announcement of the tender call was made by Transport Minister Leon Baker in Ottawa today, although tenders were advertised for two weeks ago.

$9 MILLION

Construction of the first ship is expected to take about three years to complete at a cost of $9,000,000.

It is believed tenders for the second vessel will be called in about 12 months, so that the two ships will overlap in construction and spread the cost over a four-year period.

The new ship will replace one of the Second World War frigates based at Esquimalt, and stationed as weathership on Station Papa, 900 miles off the coast.

8,400-MILE RANGE

Operating as a unit of the Canadian Coast Guard, the ship will displace 5,400 tons, with turbo-electric engines driving twin screws for a top speed of 18 knots. At 14 knots, she will have a cruising radius of 8,400 miles.

The ship will perform functions for the coast guard, for the transport department's meteorological and telecommunications branches, for the mines department and for the Pacific Oceanographic group at Nanaimo.

ELECTRONIC AIDS

Specifications call for electronic navigation aids of the latest type, including course recorder, two marine radars, loran and echo depth sounders. Special laboratories will be provided for the various scientific and technical groups, and anti-rolling tanks will be installed to permit efficient operation of scientific equipment.

A single cabin will be provided for each of the 96 crew members, and closed circuit television will help pass the time during six-week stints at sea.

Dairymen May Appeal To Richter

Vancouver Island dairy farmers plan to meet again to seek a way to dodge the blow of a new price order the B.C. Milk Board won't rescind.

Only course apparently open is a direct appeal to Agriculture Minister Frank Richter, who has so far kept out of the fight.

This appeal will be considered at the meeting.

John P. Pendray, a member of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association, said the meeting will be called within the next two or three days.

Milk Board chairman E. C. Carr said Thursday a B.C. Federation of Agriculture bid to amend the new price order has been rejected.

MODIFICATION?

However, he left the door open a crack by adding the issue is not yet closed and there will be further study "with a view towards possible modification of the regulations."

But this did not impress island farmers, of which about 300 are affected.

"They are protesting a new maximum price for fluid milk at the producer level. This is $3 a hundredweight above the minimum price for a lower grade of milk," it says.

Land farmers to undersell Island products.

COSTS HIGHER

They also protest that Island producer costs are higher because of freight charges on feed obtained from the mainland.

Esquimalt police frightened away burglars trying to break through the ceiling of a vault at MacDonalds Consolidated warehouse shortly after 10 Thursday night.

It was the second time in a week that thieves broke into the premises at 836 Viewfield. On both occasions the only loot taken appears to have been a few cartons of cigarettes.

PETTY CASH

Even if the burglars had got into the vault it would not have been worth their trouble. Most of the contents are either records or cheques—there is only a small amount of petty cash, a spokesman said.

A routine check of the warehouse at 10:20 scared the thieves who had gained entry by breaking a panel in a rear door.

DESERTER FINALLY NABBED

A Royal Navy sailor who disappeared from the cruiser HMS Belfast while she was in Vancouver harbor last May has been found in the mainland city.

A. F. W. Glittens is being held by the provost corps there, while RCN authorities here forward a warrant issued on behalf of the Royal Navy.

The cruiser was in Victoria for Navy Day, May 22, following which she moved to Vancouver. Glittens was reported missing May 24. Another sailor also was left behind when the Belfast sailed from Vancouver.

EXACTLY CORRECT action was taken by Jerry Davies (right) today when he found metal cylinder on Dallas Road waterfront—he notified police, who in turn summoned RCN demolition experts. Object is "probably aircraft flare or smoke bomb, therefore could be dangerous. Keeping a wary eye on it prior to arrival of naval experts are from left, (front) Garnett Moen, Doug Puritch, and Jerry; (back) Rosamund Grieve, Marguerite Doucet, and Barry Moen. ## Dunsmuir Daughter Dies in Portugal

Mrs. John Hope, 80, a descendant of the famous Dunsmuir family, died at her home at Praia da Rocha, Portugal, on Thursday, it was learned here today.

A daughter of Hon. James Dunsmuir, wealthy industrialist and former lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, Mrs. Hope was born at Departure Bay near Nanaimo, on April 15, 1882, and christened Elizabeth Maud.

LIVED ABROAD

She had lived abroad almost continuously since her teens, but returned to Victoria every few years. Her last visit here was in the summer of 1960 when she entertained relatives and friends at the Empress Hotel.

At that time she recalled memories of her brief residence at Government House, after James Dunsmuir became lieutenant-governor. A few months later she went off to school in England.

She spoke of her home in Portugal as "a perfectly beautiful spot, with acres of golden sands and beautifully-colored rocks, inhabited by a clean and industrious people."

FISHED UP-ISLAND

When in Victoria, Mrs. Hope liked to go fishing up-island, and in 1960 she spent two weeks at Campbell River.

A world traveller, Mrs. Hope divided her main affections between England, Portugal and Vancouver Island.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Dola Frances Cavendish, at 501 Belmont, Victoria; two sons, A. D. B. and F. J. Hope, and a granddaughter in England.

ONLY CASTLES

Her father, and his brother, Robert, built up an industrial empire in British Columbia and erected the only castles the province has ever seen.

... last here in 1960

Craigdarroch, more familiarly known in the early days as Dunsmuir's Castle, is now the head office of Greater Victoria School Board.

Hatley Park, a baronial castle, surrounded by a square mile of forest and magnificent gardens, is now the centre of the Canadian Services College.

Early in 1910 James Dunsmuir sold out his collieries, his coal rights in the E and N belt and all his business connections and retired to the castle.

He died in May, 1930, at the age of 69. His wife, formerly Laura Surlis of Georgia, lived on at Hatley until her death in August, 1937.

TRAFFIC FINES

TOPICS OF THE DAY

"A" group of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey parking lot for an expedition to Goldstream camp for a winter bud and camp fire session.

The Nature House at Francis Park will be open on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

With deadline set for Monday, St. Joseph's Hospital building fund is only $17,894 short of its $350,000 target. A $2,644 donation from the Chinese community will be used to furnish a four-bed ward.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—If a person has been living in Victoria a few years and has come from Saskatchewan and needed an operation, but wanted to go to her doctor who had been attending in Saskatchewan, would the B.C. hospitalization cover her hospital bill there for her? R.E.L.

A—Yes, provided the person is in hospital or undergoing treatment within three months of her arrival in Saskatchewan. It must be evidenced that the hospitalization or operation is necessary.

Q—Generally speaking, how frequently should a horse have its shoes removed and its hooves pared? M.E.P.

A—About every six weeks.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

The Supreme and County Courts at Victoria courthouse will resume sittings next Wednesday, Jan. 2, after the New Year's Day holiday.

The divorce court will resume Jan. 7, but the appeal court is not expected to sit again until Jan. 25.

Christmas will come all over again for some 160 of Victoria's elderly people who will be attending a Salvation Army Christmas dinner Jan. 9, at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Gifts and entertainment will add to the festivities.

Major Ronald Frewing of the Salvation Army said the dinner was not held close to Christmas because the Army had too many activities going on at that time.

Donald Macmurchie of 3194 Rutledge Street, was fined $25 and had his driving licence suspended when he pleaded guilty today to a charge of impaired-driving.

He was arrested downtown after failing to stop when signalled by a police officer. Evidence showed he narrowly missed hitting the officer who was directing traffic.

The accused changed his plea from the one of not guilty entered earlier, when he appeared on this charge.

The next general meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society will be held Friday, January 4, in the St. John Ambulance Building, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Mrs. Ena McCabe, 3384 Hollingwood Place, was elected president of the society at a recent meeting. Also elected were A. R. McMinn, vice-president, and George A. Wiggan, secretary-treasurer.

Oaths of office will be administered to four aldermen and two school trustees by Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton Jan. 4 at 10 a.m. in the council chamber.

They were elected by Victorians Dec. 13. The group includes Aldermen Arthur Dowell, Austin Curtis, A. W. Toone and newcomer Cecil Parrott; trustee Mrs. Elizabeth Maunsell and newcomer Lloyd Clarkson.

An RCMP constable, charged with careless driving, failed to appear when his case came up for trial in police court today.

Crown Prosecutor Angus Smith said the trial date was arranged to accommodate Charney Bill, a constable in the RCMP detachment at Drumheller, Alta.

Magistrate William Ostler issued a summons.

Determined Drive to Sell Parks

Serious attention to this problem undoubtedly will be deferred until the city's second civic parking garage is completed in the spring at Yates and Langley to see how the new traffic circulation develops.

Meanwhile, City Hall is expected to launch a determined drive to sell its Beaver-Elk Lake and Thetis Lake properties to the Greater Victoria water board which is jointly administered by the four municipalities.

Not only would this spread the cost, and the control, of these recreational areas over the whole community, the anticipated $2,000,000 price would go a long way towards more parks development in the city.

An immediate side effect of such a sale would be provision of enough money for the city to develop Topaz Park into a major sports centre with baseball diamonds and football fields.

The administration as well as the building will present a outlook at City Hall in 1963 when 39-year-old Dennis Young takes over as city manager in July. This will give the city a young mayor and a young manager to run the chief executive and chief administrative offices—bound to leave a significant imprint on civic policies.

Continuing Street Scene Changes

Street scenes also will continue changing into a now-familiar pattern as more high-rise apartment buildings and motels spring up along with downtown office buildings.

Completion of the new wing, construction of a psychiatric unit expansion and start towards more student residence accommodation and laboratory service at Royal Jubilee Hospital will be paced by opening of the major renovation and expansion program at St. Joseph's Hospital.

A few smaller—but more noticeable changes—also appear imminent: redevelopment of Bastion Square as a park-like plaza; opening of the first permanent pedestrian mall, likely on Broad between Fort and Broughton.

Finally, the groundwork for eventual Inner Harbor improvement, probably will be laid during 1963 with the city

Wall Collapses, 4 Workers Killed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wall at a building construction site in Prince Georges County, Md., collapsed today dropping tons of concrete and earth on some 20 workers. At least four were killed.

In the first hour after the cave-in, 14 men were pulled alive from the debris.

Detective Lieut. Richard A. Pearson of the Prince Georges County police said one man was believed still trapped.

MONTREAL (UPI)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, announced today that Detroit defenceman Bill Gadsby has been fined $200 in addition to his misconduct and game misconduct penalties incurred in a game Dec. 16 between the Red Wings and the New York Rangers.

This brings Gadsby's total fine to $275 as a misconduct penalty carries an automatic $25 fine and the game misconduct penalty is always a $50 fine.

'NO CAUSE FOR ALARM'

Diphtheria
Death Here

First diphtheria death here in more than a decade was confirmed today by a final laboratory test, but health officials stressed there was no cause for alarm.

"We have traced all the contacts and none have proved carriers but they have been treated as a precaution," said metro health chief Dr. John Whitbread.

A 30-year-old woman, who has not been identified, succumbed to the disease this week. She was believed the first such case since the mid-1940s.

"There is no cause for alarm and no need for any emergency immunization."

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

"All doctors in the community have been notified through the hospitals in the routine manner and there is no need for any public upset because all the precautions were taken."

He said it had not been determined precisely how the woman contracted the disease.

Damage Toll Mounts
As Cold Grips Europe

LONDON (AP)—Estimates of the crop damage mounted today as numbing cold and a sheath of ice and snow continued to cover much of Europe.

Unofficial estimates put the loss in Spain's citrus crop at $85,000,000 as the result of one of the worst cold waves of the century.

Elsewhere in Europe the bitter cold showed no signs of abating.

Small footprints in the snow led searchers to the bodies of a nine-year-old boy and his six-year-old sister who fell through the ice while skating on a pond in Staffordshire, England.

Three persons were reported frozen to death at Bilbao in northern Spain.

Rising temperatures eased the cold in southern Spain, but melting snows and rain caused floods; and at least three persons drowned at Utrera near Sevilla. Others were feared to have drowned at Algeciras.

Road crashes killed 14 people in Britain during the five-day Christmas period. Some were victims of ice-filled roads. Fresh snow fell on hundreds of miles of already ice-covered roads in southwest England Thursday night and Cornwall county was described by one resident as "a giant skating rink."

At Uckfield, south of London, a foot of snow fell and then froze solid.

Automobile Association authorities warned Thursday that roads in all 52 counties of Britain were affected by snow and ice, and one official said he had received "hundreds of reports of cars sliding off the roads like spinning tops. It's like a giant stock car race."

British trains and subways, unprepared for the ice, were held up and many persons were late returning to work after the freezing Christmas holiday—one of the coldest on record.

124 HURT IN CRASH;

The broadcast, heard at Key West, said both locomotive engineers, who suffered minor injuries, were arrested pending an investigation.

TEST NEW DRUGS

Dr. Kelsey Gets
High U.S. Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, hailed as national heroine for keeping thalidomide off the United States market, today was put at the head of a new U.S. office which will pass on requests to test new drugs on humans.

Her appointment as director of the investigational drug branch was part of a reorganization at the Food and Drug Administration's new drug division which was approved today by Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze.

Dr. Kelsey, a native of Cobble Hill, B.C., said she knew the new job "was in the wind" and was pleased, but was not certain yet about the scope of her new duties.

In a statement Celebrezze said the reorganization of the drug division will permit the FDA to cope with its increased responsibilities in the new drug area.

As a backlash of the outcry over thalidomide—a sedative blamed for deformities of thousands of infants born around the world—Congress last October enacted a law giving the FDA stronger authority over production and sales of prescription drugs.

New Blast
Shatters
The Wall

BERLIN (AP)—The biggest explosive assault ever against the wall dividing Berlin was carried out before dawn today.

There was no immediate indication of who set the blast.

The explosion ripped a three-foot-square hole in the wall and smashed 600 windows in neighboring buildings, including 150 in a fire brigade headquarters.

West Berlin police said it was the biggest explosive charge laid against the wall in its 16 months of existence, although previous smaller explosions have caused more damage to the wall itself.

They believed the people responsible were interrupted at their work. The charge was not embedded in the wall before it went off, which accounted for the comparatively slight damage to the wall itself and the considerable destruction away from it.

Both blasts went off in the Jerusalem Strasse, 800 yards from the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie, at Friedrichstrasse.

Nobody was hurt in today's explosion but a wooden weather shelter used by West Berlin police was ripped apart. It was empty at the time.

West Berlin police estimated that explosives equal to about 22 pounds of TNT were used for the blast.

Police also reported that a defecting 22-year-old member of the East German army got through the barricades in uniform Thursday night on West Berlin's northern border.

Paratroopers
Invade Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—United Nations troops have fought their way into and captured the Katangan Provincial gendarmerie headquarters in Elisabethville, UN headquarters here said tonight.

A headquarters spokesman said the UN troops cleared Katangan roadblocks.

He said about 1,000 Indonesian UN paratroopers arrived in Albertville, north of Elisabethville, and prepared to move into the Katangan capital.

All UN civilians had been ordered to evacuate Elisabethville, he said.

By DENNIS KILEY

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — Large-scale firing which broke out around Elisabethville at about 9 p.m. Thursday night continued today and Katanga Province's gendarmes are bombarding Ethiopian United Nations troop positions with heavy mortars.

Firing could still be heard, though UN troops are standing by with instructions to fire only in self defence while repulsing a physical attack.

This Reuters correspondent understood from the highest UN authority, however, that the UN forces will counter-attack today on at least two different fronts.

A UN officer said this would be "with a view to getting hold of the mercenaries who are probably backing them (the Katangans) and giving them the courage to carry on firing at us."

A UN battalion will attack the Katangan positions at the Elisabethville golf course, the officer said, and the Ethiopians will "clean up" the Union Miniere guesthouse, from which mercenaries were reported firing on Ethiopian positions.

This correspondent was pinned down all night in a house just inside UN Indian Gurkha positions with a Katangan heavy machine-gun post 80 yards away.

A Gurkha lieutenant told this correspondent about 4 a.m. today his troops were firing at Katangans they could see creeping up on them through the grass.

He said they were allowed to fire only if the Katangans came within a few yards of them. He thought they had killed one.

Chief UN representative Eliud Mathu and the UN general officer commanding the Katanga area, Indian General Prem Chand, together with the Elisabethville UN commanding officer, Indian Brigadier Noronha, took Katanga President Moise Tshombe up to the firing positions at the golf course about 10 p.m. to see for himself what his men were doing.

Tracers could be seen streaking towards the Gurkha positions at that stage.

Reduced Deficit Budget Objective

By VICTOR MACKIE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Finance Minister George Nowlan will bring down his first budget after Feb. 15 with the objective of narrowing the budgetary deficit. It will be a hold-the-line budget.

Under the guidance of the new minister of finance, aided and abetted in the cabinet by Senator Wallace McCutcheon, the government will follow a policy of trying to raise federal revenues so that they will exceed federal expenditures.

It is a tough job, but the effort is being made.

Consequently Canadians cannot look for any important tax cuts in the coming budget.

The government hopes to avoid any major increases in taxation. But if it is serious in its efforts to reduce the deficit by any sizeable amount, it may have to impose some tax increases. This is a move that all governments want to avoid on the eve of a general election.

Certainly it appears that Canada is again on the eve of a general election. The patience of the Social Credit party with the Conservative government appears to be about exhausted. National Social Credit leader Robert Thompson has served notice that if the government takes no "positive action" in the next few weeks his group will stop supporting the administration.

The main estimates for 1967-1968 will end up close to $6.5 billion or almost $500 million more than the revised main estimates of last October. Nearly half of this is built-in, uncontrollable increases in expenditures. The remainder is picked-up of expenditures deferred this year to bring about the austerity cuts. These are the hard economic facts facing the budgeters.

Police Guards Kill Montreal Holdup Man

MONTREAL (CP)—A man was shot to death and another escaped when police foiled an attempted holdup at a laundry in east-end Montreal today.

Two members of the Montreal police holdup squad accompanied the laundry's payroll accountants to the bank this morning.

Det. Sgt. Jean-Louis Langlois and Det. Sgt. Gerard Tardif had just completed the escort trip and were sitting at desks in the laundry when two armed men, their faces covered with scarves, walked in.

They shouted: "This is a holdup. Everybody down on the floor."

The wounded gunman was dead on arrival at Jean-Talon Hospital.
